CONDUCTOR AND ENGINEER BLAMED FOR THE DISASTER—LIST OF VICTIMS

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

SENECA, MICH., Nov. 28.—When night fell on the scene of the wreck on the Wabash railroad, which occurred a mile and a half east of here at 6:45 o'clock last night, there were no indications to show that the list of dead will not reach the appalling figures from 80 to 100. A day and a night of untold agony and horror, such as was never known in the history of railroading in this state before, has done much to clear the wreck, care for the injured, and locate and identify the dead. But the work is not finished yet, and it is probable that the full list of those who came to their death in the sudden crash and shock of the two swiftly hurrying trains as they met in the darkness will never be known.

ENGINEER STRONG'S STATEMENT

I saw the headlight of No. 13 four or five miles before the collision occurred, but I supposed the train was sidetracked at Sand Creek, waiting for us to pass. The glare of the powerful electric headlight made it impossible to see the exact location of the other train. My fireman and I both jumped from the right-hand gangway.

ENGINEER STRONG, left leg sprained and left shoulder hurt.

JOHN SCHUNDER, Detroit, train boy, face cut.
MISS JESSIE WIGGINS, Detroit, glass driven into side.
G. M. MEAD, Clear Lake, Ia., mouth painfully cut, all teeth knocked loose.
MRS. G. H. MEAD, severe cut in head and bruises.

Causes of the Disaster.

Train 13, bound west, with a baggage car, two immigrant cars, a chair car and two sleepers, left Detroit an hour and a half behind time. Train No. 3, a local passenger, followed No. 13. At Milan Junction engine 611, drawing train 13, broke a rocker arm and laid across the junction of the Detroit Southern railroad for half an hour until assistance could be sent. This made the train two hours late. The train dispatcher at Montpelier, O., on the line of the road, when he heard of the trouble of train 13, ordered engines 88 and 151, both small ones, to the junction to take the place of the large crippled engine and carry the train west to Chicago, or some point where better engine service could be secured, for train 13 was a through limited train that made but few stops.

In the meantime the through limited train, No. 4, from Chicago for the east, was covering all kinds of ground. The dispatcher determined that the eastern-bound train should meet the crippled train 13 at Seneca station, a well-known junction point, and meet train 3, which was tagging up behind 13, at Sand Creek, about four and a half miles further east.

The order sent out to carry this into effect was written as follows:

Orders to the Trainmen.

Order No. 82—Nos. 13 and 3: No. 4, engine 609 will meet No. 13, engines 88 and 151 at Seneca and No. 3, engine 623 at Sand Creek. Engines 88 and 151 will doublehead 13.

This order was sent to the conductors and engineers of all three trains, so that each would know where it was to meet and pass the other. Conductor Crowel of Detroit, of train No. 13, received his all right; so did the engineers of his train. They got the order at Holloway and went through the little town of Sand Creek on a dead run, making a 50-mile rate of speed, so it is said, for Seneca, to lay up and pass the eastbound limited. Train 3, trailing behind, also got the same orders at Holloway, and train 4 is alleged to have been given its duplicate orders at Montpelier, but instead of stopping at Seneca and passing train 13 there Engineer Strong of train 4 rushed through the village of 200 people like a flash and out upon the straight track for Sand Creek at a 60-mile clip.

A mile and a quarter out Engineer Strong saw the headlight of Engineer Works, engine 88, at the head of train 13, and shut down his air brakes. Engineer Strong dragged along the next quarter of a mile unable to stop under the fullest brake pressure, and collision was inevitable.

Jumped From His Engine.

He ordered his fireman to jump and jumped himself. How he came out of it alive he does not know. The two trains came together with a crash that shook houses that were 400 yards away from their foundations.

The scene which followed was heart-rending in the extreme. The spot where the wreck occurred was in the open country with but one farm house nearby, and facilities for aiding the injured were extremely inadequate.

As soon as the news of the disaster reached Supt. Burns here a relief train was dispatched to the scene with a score or more of surgeons on board. Farmers from nearby and those who escaped from the wreck alive made heroic efforts to rescue the less fortunate.

The condition of the wreck was such that in the darkness it was impossible to render immediate aid. Immediately after the collision six of the cars of the westbound train, crowded with immigrants, burst into flames. The unfortunates fought madly in their attempt to crawl out of doors and windows, thus hindering each other so that the bulk of them were unable to escape.

Slowly Roasted to Death.

The immigrant train was made up of nine cars behind two engines. Six of these cars were jammed together. Very soon the wreckage began burning fiercely and those in the cars were slowly roasted to death. There was absolutely no means at hand to fight the fire and the agonized shrieks of the poor unfortunates was appalling.

"It was a veritable hell of fire," said Victor C. Greenbaum of New York city, who escaped with slight injuries.

"People who came hurrying to the scene from farmhouses in that locality, stood about the wreckage helplessly and held their hands to their ears to shut out the frightful screams, and turned their eyes away because it was more than they could bear."

The scene immediately surrounding the wreck was terrible. In the semi-darkness, illuminated only by the glare from the fire of the wreckage, men stumbled about, over corpses which fell from the ruins, and which after the flames had died out, were hauled from the debris.

Corpses Alongside the Track.

There they lay along the track, some covered by blankets which had been brought by the farmers who had flocked to the scene from the surrounding country. People came hurrying from the nearby villages, and these, with the help of those who escaped on train No. 4, did what they could.

The immigrants who were lucky enough to get out alive from the last one or two immigrant cars were unable to speak English, and could give no idea of the number of people that were in each car. The conductor of this train could not be found, and for this reason the estimate of the number of dead must be considered purely as approximate. Railroad men and others agreed the number must approach 100.

When the relief trains arrived as many of the injured as could be carried were taken to Montpelier, O., Peru, Ind., and to the hospital at Adrian.

Carload of Italians Burned.

A whole carload of Italian immigrants just from Italy bound for Colorado were imprisoned in a car and burned before the eyes of hundreds of people who were utterly unable to render them assistance. A second car of immigrants was nearly burned. The head of this second car was jammed in and the Italians thrown about like balls. It is estimated that at least one-half of them perished.

A day coach was completely telescoped. It contained from 15 to 18 passengers. Nothing of the body of the car was left except splinters and the roof. Six dead were taken from this car, five more are known to have escaped with their lives, but severely injured, and the others got off with slight injuries in a most miraculous manner. Seven passenger cars were totally burned, but passengers in five of them escaped before being injured by fire.

One engine is a total wreck and two others badly damaged. The collision is blamed upon Conductor George M. Martin of Detroit of train No. 4, and Engineer Strong of the same train, engine 609, likewise of Detroit. It is charged by Supt. Burns of the Wabash that these two men ignored orders, and that to them alone is due the horrible slaughter.

Grewsome Scene at Daylight.

The scenes of the holocaust presented a bleak and desolate appearance this morning. Strewn along both sides of the track for 500 feet were car wheels, brake beams and such other parts of the wrecked coaches as would not burn. Engines 88 and 609 were lying in the ditch on the right hand side of the road, veritable scrap heaps. Broken cars, many of them daubed with the blood of their last occupants, were scattered about and being used as cushions by those hud-

MILLIONAIRE PEACOCK GIVES FINE HOMES EACH TO TWO OLD CRONIES

Prefers That Method of Disposing of Wealth to Founding Libraries.

OTHER GIFTS TO COME

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 28.—A. B. Peacock, the Pittsburgh multi-millionaire and former first vice president of the Carnegie Steel Company, has created a sensation here by visiting two old friends of his boyhood and presenting them each with a fine house and lot on one of the best residence streets in the town. The beneficiaries are Abram Suydam and Charles Holcomb.

Mr. Peacock told his friends that he would not, like Andrew Carnegie, give away public libraries, but that he meant to dispose of some of his millions in gladdening the hearts of his old friends and fellow-men.

Both Suydam and Holcomb are old men, of very limited means, who can no longer do hard work. When Mr. Peacock instructed them each to select a good house in town as a Thanksgiving present from him they were dazed at their good fortune. Mr. Peacock purchased the properties they selected at once for $4,000 and turned them over to his old friends, with a fund sufficient to equip them with all modern improvements.

HARRISONS WILL FIGHT PENSION FOR HIS WIDOW

This is the Opinion of the Late President's Private Secretary, Who Witnessed His Will.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—Members of the Harrison family will fight before congress the bill to grant Mrs. Harrison a pension of $5,000 a year. This prediction is made by E. F. Tibbott, who was private secretary to Gen. Harrison after he retired from the White House. Gen. Harrison dictated his will to Mr. Tibbott, who witnessed the instrument and discussed it with him.

"The general told me he had drawn the will confident that should Mrs. Harrison survive him congress would follow the well-established precedent of voting her a pension of $5,000 a year, which, with the provision he had made for her in his will, would be ample to take care of her," said Mr. Tibbott today. "The general added that he would have bequeathed to Mrs. Harrison his entire estate during life had he any doubt that congress would grant her a pension."

Senator Fairbanks of Indiana will present the bill to pension Mrs. Harrison, and Mr. Tibbott expects members of the family to oppose its passage on the ground that Mrs. Harrison does not come within the precedent, having married him only a short time before his death.

Congress at the coming session will promptly pass a bill granting Mrs. McKinley a pension of $5,000 a year.

PRAISE FOR OUR COUNTRY.

Argentine Delegate to Pan-American Congress Pays a Tribute to the United States.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28.—Martin Garcia Merou, one of the Argentine delegates to the Pan-American conference, spoke at the banquet last night tendered by the United States delegates in honor of their Spanish-American colleagues.

He said in part: "I have had the pleasure of living in the United States and nobody has a greater admiration than I, nor a better feeling, nor more grateful regard for the manly virtues of the American nation; for the sense of justice of the American statesmen; for the high ideals of the American people; or for the sincerity of its friendship toward us—sister nations of Central and South America. The noble words of that great American diplomat, Mr. Hay, have reached us, conveying to all the Latin-American countries today represented in Mexico assurances of the interest the government and the people of the United States take in our prosperity and welfare, and the absolute unselfishness of its policy in regard to us; and we all know that these sentiments are real; that these declarations are sincere, as they come from the government and the men who have always stood by their pledges, who might have taken as a motto, the words of Shakespeare: 'Be all the ends thou aimst at thy country's, thy God's and truth's.'"

REBELS ABOUT TO SURRENDER CITY OF COLON

Negotiations Begin on Board U. S. Gunboat in Town's Harbor

BRITISH CONSUL AND OFFICIALS PRESENT

It Is Believed Colombian Government Will Be in Possession Today

REGULARS RALLY AND ARE WINNING AGAIN

Merchants Appeal to Foreign Consuls for Protection---Marines Will Land and Protect Property in Case of Fighting or Disorder.

COLON, COLOMBIA, Nov. 28.—Gens. Alban and Jeffries arrived here today and were received at the railroad station by the guards of the United States gunboat Machias and the British second-class cruiser Tribune. The government commanders have doubtless come here to arrange terms for discontinuing the struggle with the Liberal commander's representatives, the American naval authorities and the British consul.

The conference was held on board the United States gunboat Marietta in the harbor. The commanding officers of the Marietta, of the British cruiser Tribune, of the French cruiser Suchet and Lieutenant Commander McCrea of the Machias and Captain Perry of the Iowa were present, as were Gens. Alban and Jeffries, representing the government of Colombia, and Senor de la Rosa, secretary to Gen. Domingo Diaz, who represented the Liberal party of Colombia.

No information of the result of this conference has been made public and none of the details of the understanding arrived at has leaked out. It can be said upon the best authority, however, that the Liberals will surrender Colon tomorrow to the government authorities.

Under United States Protection.

United States marines guard Colon tonight. Many unreliable statements concerning the terms of surrender are current on shore, but the only men informed in this regard refuse to answer questions. Colon is quiet, but much anxiety prevails.

The railroad telegraph line, which was cut yesterday evening, has been restored. It is reported that the government troops have rallied and are driving the Liberals toward Colon.

The Colombian gunboat General Pinzon has anchored on the other side of Colon harbor. She is reported to be landing troops at Kenneys Bluff.

The Associated Press confirms the news printed in The Gazette this morning of the government troops' reverse at Buena Vista. The correspondent says:

"The government forces, 300 strong, under Gen. Alban, on reappearing at Buena Vista, opened fire on the Liberal forces under Col. Barrera yesterday afternoon. The rebels were not intrenched, but having the choice of ground occupied the top of a small hill at Buena Vista. The fighting, which was of the most savage nature, lasted until 5:30 p. m., without stopping, when the government forces, owing to the great loss they had sustained, were compelled to give way and retreated toward Frijolos. Over 100 men were killed or wounded, the bodies lying all along the railroad track. The Liberal loss was insignificant. It is said to be less than a dozen men."

Reinforcements for Alban.

Reinforcements of government troops in small parties are joining Gen. Alban continually.

This is the anniversary of the independence of the isthmus and has always been a holiday at both ends of the railroad line, but now all is deep sorrow, and gloomy forebodings occupy every mind, for many a crimson spot between Colon and Panama marks the place where brave men have fallen.

The leading merchants of Colon called on the United States and British consuls

MISS STONE AND HER COMPANION REPORTED AS DEAD AND BURIED

Minute Details Are Given by the Turkish Vali of Salonica.

RUMOR IS DISCREDITED

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 28.—The Turkish authorities at Salonica hear that Miss Ellen M. Stone, the captured American missionary, and Madame Tsilka, her companion, are both dead, and that their bodies were buried at the village of Alidere in the district of Dubnitza.

Madame Tsilka is reported to have died after the birth of her child, and Miss Stone is said to have succumbed to grief and hardship. The brigands are alleged to have dispersed after the deaths of their captives.

The report is discredited at the United States legation and at the United States consulate.

The feeling here is that the strongest pressure by the United States is necessary to compel Bulgaria to effect the release of the prisoners.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—The rumor of the death of Miss Stone and her attendant, Madame Tsilka, which reached the state department yesterday, came from Turkish sources, the first informant being the Vali of Salonica.

The two women were said to have been held captives at Vxesnej and Myejrjoza, two towns supposed to be on the Bulgarian frontier, but which have not so far been located in the atlases.

The fact that both Mr. Eddy and Consul General Dickinson emphatically discredit the report of Miss Stone's death is regarded here as indicating their purpose to continue without relaxation their efforts to secure her release.

SOFIA, BULGARIA, Nov. 28.—A telegram received from a private agent at Dubnitza says that Miss Stone and Madame Tsilka were alive November 24.

WIFE CRIED BECAUSE HER HUSBAND KILLED A MAN.

Then She Went to the Police and Told of the Crime—Murderer Managed to Escape.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 28.—John Krause, who kept a little cigar store on Lincoln avenue, was murdered this evening in his apartments in the rear of the store. The police are now looking for Frank Williams, who, according to the statements made to the police by his own wife, committed the crime.

Williams was an employe of Krause and, accompanied by his wife, went to Krause's place to collect some back wages due him. Krause was unable to pay the money and the men quarreled. Williams in a fit of anger picked up a stick and struck Krause, fracturing his skull and killing him instantly. Krause lived alone.

After the murder Krause's body was tied up in a compact bundle by bending the legs and then Williams, taking his wife with him, went to a livery stable to hire a wagon to carry the body away. Mrs. Williams remained outside the livery stable office and as a man appeared, became hysterical and asked him to save her. She said she was afraid a man in the stable was going to kill her.

She was directed to go to a saloon nearby to get out of the way. This she did, and to the saloonkeeper she told of the killing of Krause by her husband. The husband came in the saloon shortly afterwards looking for her and asked her to go with him. She began crying and refused. The husband then kissed her and ran out. Jaeger notified the police and the woman was taken to police headquarters, where she then told the story.

The accused man is about 25 years old and his wife is 18 years. The couple came to Trenton from Buffalo a few weeks ago. Mrs. Williams before her marriage, about a year ago, lived in Wilmington.

DADY NOT SURE YET.

Big Havana Sewer and Paving Contract Has Not Yet Been Definitely Awarded.

HAVANA, Nov. 28.—At a meeting of the city council today, called to approve the minutes of the meeting of November 15, it was shown by the minutes that the council had not voted to award the sewer contract to Michael J. Dady of Brooklyn, N. Y., on his reduced bid.

The vote at that time was to take the report of the committee recommending his proposition, into consideration, and the minutes were approved in that form without discussion. Dady's reduced bid was to pave and sewer Havana for $10,913,888.

TERRIBLE TERRY KNOCKED OUT BY YOUNG CORBETT

Fast and Clean Fight, but Without Much Science Displayed---Ended in the Second Round.

CHAMPION COUNTED OUT WHILE TRYING TO GET UP

Pugilists Went at Each Other in Whirlwind Fashion—McGovern Left Many Openings and the Colorado Man Finally Found One That Suited Him.

ACCOUNT OF THE BATTLE BY THE PRINCIPALS

RECORD OF THE BATTLE

Winner—William T. Rothwell ("Young Corbett").
Loser—Terrence McGovern.
Knockout after 1 minute and 44 seconds of fighting in the second round.
Prize—Featherweight championship of the world and 37½ per cent of the gross receipts.
Fight was witnessed by 4,000 persons, including the mayor and chief of police of Hartford.
Referee—Charlie White.
Value to winner, $7,500; value to loser, $2,500.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

HARTFORD, CONN., Nov. 28.—Honors were won and lost with great rapidity today, when Terence McGovern passed the featherweight championship of the world to William Rothwell of Denver, who is better known as "Young Corbett."

The battle lasted a short two rounds, but into the 4 minutes and 44 seconds that the men actually faced each other there was crowded more fighting than is often seen in a contest that goes the full limit of 20 rounds.

From the moment the gong sounded, calling the two pugilists together for the first time until the final blow was struck, with the exception of one minute for rest, it was give and take. From one side of the ring to the other the midget fighters forced each other. A clinch on the ropes would be followed by a sharp exchange of blows in the center of the arena. Again two little, lithe forms would flit in and out, gloved fists moving with a rapidity that it was difficult for the eye to follow.

All of this happened under the close observation of the mayor and the chief of police of this city, who were present to see that the laws governing the contest were in no manner fractured.

Won On Its Merits.

They saw a youthful champion go down to defeat, laid low by a stronger and more clever antagonist. They saw no drop of blood shed, and after it was over they saw the loser walk away uninjured and with hardly a blemish, save the terrible one to his pugilistic reputation.

No impartial judge who saw the fight will say that it was not won on its merits. There was little to choose between the two men in the first round. And though it may be said that 10 seconds before it was brought to so sudden a termination the fight belonged to either contestant, there was no time when Corbett did not show himself to be a shade better than McGovern. His victory was honestly gained and well merited. Prejudice only can detract from his achievement.

McGovern went into the ring confident that past successes would be repeated. He was the champion, and that means much. His reputation for administering punishment was enough to daunt an adversary of strong heart. His friends were there to cheer him on to victory. Betting men were offering 5 to 1 that he would win, and their odds attracted few takers.

A Lad From the West.

Facing the champion from the opposite corner was a boyish chap, no larger than himself, but who somehow looked like a gladiator. It was "Young Corbett," an aspirant to premier honors, of whose prowess not 10 among the onlookers had well-formed ideas. He had come unattended out of the west to do this battle. He had been his own manager, his own trainer and had been to himself his only guide and philosopher and almost his only friend. No boaster, he had merely promised to do his best, asserting that McGovern's reputation had no terror for him.

"Terry can hit," said this unknown, "but so can I. He can take punishment; I believe I can take more of it. He is quick and active; I am not slow. He is the champion and unconquered. Well, he has much to lose. I am penniless, and if I can win, his honors will be mine, and his friends will flock to me."

Still the weight of advantage seemed to be all one way. McGovern, though little more than a stripling in years, was a veteran in many hard-fought ring battles, a victor in all. His face showed the scars that follow strife. The tricks of his trade were all his. He had disposed of many ambitious aspirants such as the one facing him. He had gone out of his class to meet and defeat champions larger and heavier than himself.

How the Odds Lengthened.

So it is little wonder that shrewd betting men accepted all the Corbett money offered at odds of 2 to 1 and then lengthened the odds on McGovern to 3 to 1, then 4 to 1 and then 5 to 1. To them it looked like borrowing from a generous uncle. But there were careful observers who saw in the ring that which made them pause. This presumptuous youth from the Rocky mountain country did not impress one as an easy victim. The applause that welcomed the appearance of the champion worried him not at all. He gave no evidence of nervousness.

There was confidence written across every feature of his face. He moved about his corner directing his squires with a nonchalance that was admirable.

Then, too, he showed power in every limb, and in his entire supple body. His legs were perhaps a trifle less sturdy than those of McGovern. But the development of his back, breast and shoulders was superb. He possesses, does Young Corbett, remarkable forearms, that tell where lies the strength that makes him always a dangerous hitter. His neck is thick, and above it is poised a head that contains more gray matter than can be found in the skulls of two ordinary pugilists. In all truth this champion owns a countenance that betokens a grade of intelligence belonging not to McGovern.

No Chances Were Taken.

There had been a long, tedious wait, the monotony broken by the appearance of two first-rate boys who hammered each other for a single round and then disappeared at the first show of blood, so as not to endanger the feature of the day. But business was prompt after the principals entered the ring, one hour to a minute after the advertised time. They quickly stripped, showing themselves to be cast from the same mold.

Corbett was the first to show himself, big Bob Armstrong with him, looking like a black giant. The stranger nodded and smiled, answering the cheers that were generously accorded to the one thought to be the coming victim. He smiled again at the outburst of enthusiastic cheers that announced the approach of the champion. Corbett looked Terry over as the latter crawled beneath the ropes, and then began to crunch beneath his feet the rosin that had been sprinkled in his corner.

McGovern's hand were heavily bandaged. His arms appeared to be thin. His face was drawn, as it always is, for that matter, and he seemed light about the shoulders as he sat far humped over in the chair that had been placed for him in the corner that had gained a reputation for good luck.

Opening of the Battle.

The preliminaries were soon over and Charley White waved the two pugilists forward for instructions. They agreed to protect themselves at all times, in clinches and out, but to break at the word from the referee.

The bell clanged and the fight was on.

McGovern sprang from his corner, expecting to meet Corbett far across the ring. It was not necessary for him to travel so far. Corbett was in the center and ready to meet him. There was a quick clash and an exchange of blows that told the spectators that the fight would be of short duration.

McGovern has tactics that have been all his own. He has said that the best defense is to fight so hard that the other fellow will be too busy dodging blows to retaliate.

Well, Corbett infringed on the patent. He stood toe to toe with the champion and swung right and left until McGovern had to quit to see what had gone wrong.

Terry Was Surprised.

Then the champion took up another of his successful measures. He sailed into the bold boy from the west with a swing that must have ended the battle had it landed. Terry did not expect it to land, but it would surely start this aggressive foe on the retreat and the rest would be easy.

Corbett did something that gave the champion just cause for sincere grief. After dodging the wicked blow, instead of retreating, he stepped in and landed a stinging right on Terry's jaw.

Now, that was contrary to all precedent, and McGovern looked inquiringly at the referee to see whether everything was "on the level."

Being convinced that it was, he took up his work, and during the remainder of the round the two lads were fighting like the demons that they are when their lust for battle is aroused.

Immediately after young Starr of Philadelphia, defeated Joe Burke of New

McClelland Posts Forfeit To Meet the Winner

Billy Corcoran last night posted a $500 forfeit on behalf of Jack McClelland of this city to meet "Young Corbett," the conqueror of Terry McGovern, for a side bet of $1,000, under any conditions. Corcoran answered the Hartford club yesterday that the Pittsburgher would meet the winner. He also wired Tom O'Rourke in New York, stating he had posted a forfeit for a side bet of $1,000. Corcoran says McClelland will meet either McGovern or the new champion, the latter preferred, for the featherweight championship. McClelland and Corbett have been matched several times to meet at Denver, and the bouts have been called off for unknown reasons. Corcoran thinks McClelland can beat Corbett, and can get the Pittsburgher plenty of backing.

Adjt.-Gen. Thos. J. Stewart Wedded While Confined to Bed.

ADJT.-GEN. STEWART.

NORRISTOWN, PA., Nov. 28.—Adjt.-Gen. Thomas J. Stewart and Mrs. A. R. Weaver of Philadelphia were married this afternoon at Gen. Stewart's residence in this city. Owing to severe injuries sustained by Gen. Stewart in a runaway accident at Harrisburg three months ago the marriage was strictly private, only members of both families being present. Gen. Stewart was moved from the Harrisburg hospital to his Norristown home last Saturday and is still confined to bed. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. W. Sayres of Philadelphia, chaplain of the Grand Army of the Republic, a long-time friend of Gen. Stewart. The adjutant-general was previously married to Miss Rebecca W. Ashenfelter, who died December 4, 1894.

IRISH LEADERS ARE IN THE CITY

Hon. John E. Redmond Says He Hopes to Worry the English.

INGENIOUS PLAN TO OBTAIN HIS END

Pilot of Erin's Cause in the House of Commons Will Address a Mass Meeting in Old City Hall Tomorrow Night to Organize a League.

"It is only by making ourselves a nuisance to England that we Irishmen can accomplish anything. England has never had our interests at heart, and now more than ever she is absorbed in her own affairs. The war engrosses her attention, and it is only by making ourselves troublesome that we can hope to get what we want. How shall we do this? Why, any way. Do anything that will stir England up."

This was the brief summary of the objects of the United Irish league, as given by the Hon. John E. Redmond, the Irish leader of the house of commons, last night at the Duquesne hotel. Accompanied by two other members of parliament, P. A. McHugh of the Sligo district and James O'Donnel of the Kerry district, he came to the city last evening. A delegation of Pittsburgh Irishmen, representing the several Irish organizations of the city, met them at the Union station. The committee was composed of Ed F. Duffy, L. P. Horan, Patrick Gilleece, John M. Welsh, John F. O'Toole and Peter Madden.

"The present object of the league is to get a free parliament for Ireland," Mr. Redmond said. "We will not say what may happen if we do not get it.

"In America I have not met a person who was not interested in the Irish cause and sympathetic. I spoke at New York in Carnegie hall and the auditorium was packed. The same thing was true in Boston, in Mechanics hall. The league is getting a good foothold in America. In Chicago 14 or 15 branches have been organized. Many branches have been organized in other cities. We expect to organize branches in Pittsburgh."

Mr. Redmond, Mr. McHugh and Mr. O'Donnel will address a mass meeting in Old City hall Saturday evening.

The party, together with the receiving committee, has been invited to occupy three lower prosecnium boxes at the Grand opera house this evening to witness the stock company's production of Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer." An invitation has been extended also by Manager McCulloch to witness the play at the Empire theater.

POLE SHOT ON CAR.

Frightened Negro Then Compelled Conductor to Stop and Escaped.

Miss Kreeze, a Pole, was accidentally shot in the leg, shortly after midnight, on a Second avenue car. A revolver fell from the pocket of an unknown negro and exploded, the ball entering Kreeze's right leg. He fell to the floor in a stupor. The negro and his companions became alarmed and made a rush for the door, but were held up by the conductor. The negro pointed the pistol into the conductor's face and compelled him to stop the car. He and his companions then jumped off and hurried across the hills. Kreeze was sent to Mercy hospital. His wound is not serious. Two women who were with the negroes were arrested, but were released later.

Blockinger—Smith.

Last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. August Blockinger of the South Side, their daughter, Miss Loella Blockinger, was united in marriage to Mr. Albert W. Smith of Aspinwall. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Luther Roth of Grace Lutheran church, South Side, in the presence of about 40 guests. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Nell Berg of Knoxville, while the groom's attendant was Mr. George F. Smith, his brother. They will be at home to their friends at No. 1621 Bedford avenue, after December 20.

NUMBER OF FATALITIES WILL REACH NEAR 100

died around the open fires about the scene. Farmers for miles around drove to the collision this morning, in a majority of cases bringing their wives and families with them. After viewing the debris scattered along the track they would walk through the fields to the house where Giovanni Folonaro, one of the emigrants, who escaped from the burning cars, was tossing on a bed and muttering in his native tongue.

When the first relief train arrived on the scene last night from Adrian, six of the cars in train No. 15 were burning so fiercely that the relief party could not get within several hundred feet of them. They were the baggage car, the emigrant car, two coaches and a chair car.

Rescuers Forced to Wait.

There was nothing to do but stand back and wait until the fire burned itself out. It was past midnight before a search of the ruins of the burned cars could be begun. As soon as the heat had subsided sufficiently scores of men began delving in the mass. As it was slowly turned over, small crisp pieces of those who had perished in the flames were occasionally found. The largest portion of any body found was a terribly burned trunk. The heat had been so intense that the cars and their human freight had been reduced to a blackened powder that was blown about for hundreds of feet by the breeze. Inside of two hours the iron works of the cars had all been hauled into a ditch at either side of the road.

The first relief party on the scene arrived from Adrian 35 minutes after the accident, and they immediately began work on the second coach of train No. 4, which was telescoped by the collision and reduced to splinters. The wreck of the coach was jammed into a space hardly 14 feet square. From the ruins of this car the bodies of four men and one woman were pulled out.

Arrival of Ambulance Trains.

Train No. 3, which was waiting on the side track at Sand Creek (having followed No. 15 from Detroit), was run up to the scene as soon as the accident was reported there, and on this train practically all the injured from the westbound train were loaded and started for the company's hospital at Peru, Ind.

A relief train from Montpelier, O., took more of the injured from the eastbound train and also started for Peru with them. Pending the arrival of these ambulance trains, the injured, as fast as they were extricated, were placed in the two sleepers attached to train No. 13 which were not wrecked, or taken to the house of Ben Huss, which is within 100 yards of where the collision occurred.

At 3 o'clock the bodies of the dead, together with the few awful fragments that had been dug out from the burning cars, were loaded aboard a car and taken back to the morgue at Adrian.

Fate of a Fireman.

At 4:15 the body of Fireman Calvin Baldorf was discovered, jammed into the wrecked cab of his engine, No. 151. From the position of his body he had evidently been in the act of feeding the furnace when the two trains came together. His body was badly crushed, but still recognizable.

At 7 o'clock the wreckers removed the last piece of wreckage from the tracks. It was engine No. 151. Although considerably warped and bent, its wheels were still true enough so that they kept the track after the engine had been pulled back on the rails, and it was towed to the Seneca side track.

The cab of engine No. 88, which had been forced on top of engine No. 151 in the collision, was still resting there.

Supt. Burns said tonight that he was unable to tell the exact number of Italian immigrants aboard train No. 13, but thought that there were not more than 50. Passengers on the train and a number of those who were early on the scene dispute this and say the number was nearer 80. Supt. Burns has received no report as yet from Ticket Collector Eames of train No. 13, who probably knows nearer than anyone else the number of Italians in the cars.

Engineer Strong Held Responsible.

He also said that Engineer Strong of train No. 4 was responsible. "His orders," said he, "clearly directed him to pass train No. 13 at Seneca. He evidently forgot them, for he did not stop there and the collision resulted."

Supt. Burns estimated the financial loss to the Wabash at $48,000.

Coroner Hamilton of Adrian this afternoon impaneled a jury and will begin an inquest into the disaster tomorrow morning. Following are the members and their occupations: E. F. Cleveland, grocer; J. B. Morden, liveryman; A. W. Carey and A. W. Aldrich, merchants; J. W. Kirk, jeweler, and John Davis, retired merchant. All the jurors are prominent in the business affairs of the little city of Adrian. No steps have been taken as yet toward the arrest of Engineer Strong, whom Supt. Burns says is responsible for the collision and holocaust.

Arrival of the Wounded.

PERU, IND., Nov. 28.—Twenty-five persons who were injured in the Wabash wreck arrived here this morning on a train traveling in two sections. Lucie Virglies and Trubuzzi Silvestro, although frightfully injured, were able to talk briefly. They were well acquainted with the people in their party and say that 100 of the Italians are missing and unaccounted for.

The trainload of maimed and wounded passengers brought here was a pitiful miniature of the horror of last night. There were not enough ambulances to carry the wounded to the hospital and many express wagons and trucks were pressed into service.

Among the wounded at the hospital is 12-year-old Carmen Paer, who cries unceasingly for his uncle. His uncle, however, is dead, having given his own life to save the boy. The boy's protector, whose name was Thomas Gerbargo, had made his body a shield to protect his nephew. When his lifeless form was picked up the boy was found under it only slightly injured.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 28.—President Joseph Ramsey, Jr., of the Wabash railroad when seen at the headquarters of that railway here today, said that he had received but few details of the wreck near Seneca, Mich.

President Ramsey's Statement.

"The reports we have received, however," said Mr. Ramsey, "show that no more than 20 persons were killed and 20 injured. The latest report received at 9.50 a. m. from Supt. G. M. Burns, who has been at the wreck since last night, gives these figures as the result of his personal investigation. I have always insisted that whenever a wreck occurs on the Wabash the names of dead and wounded and the number shall receive the first attention of the officials' investigation of the affair. The property loss and details as to the responsibility, etc., can come later."

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 28.—George W. Youmans, one of the victims in the Wabash railroad disaster, was a well-known building and paving contractor, and a member of the board of public works of Kansas City. He erected many of the large buildings in Kansas City and had held heavy contracts throughout the southwest. Mr. Youmans was the father of Frank E. Youmans, a young broker, under arrest in Detroit on a charge of embezzlement in Kansas City. Mr. Youmans was engaged on a big contract in Texas at the time of his son's arrest, and had arrived in Kansas City Tuesday and proceeded east. He intended, he said, to persuade his son to return to Missouri and face the charge. Mr. Youmans was 58 years old. He leaves a widow in Kansas City.

EFFECT OF AN ARCTIC WRECK.

One Hundred and Fifteen Miners Said to Be in Serious Straits.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—The report that about 115 miners from Cape Nome are in serious straits at Unalaska, Alaska, as the result of the stranding of the schooner Ralph J. Long, is being investigated by the treasury department with a view to their relief if the necessity exists. Capt. Shoemaker, chief of the revenue cutter service, today telegraphed instructions to an official at San Francisco to investigate the story, and if the miners are in distress a revenue cutter will be ordered to Unalaska with provisions.

The cutter either will bring back the stranded miners or escort the schooner to port in case the latter is able to sail.

CORPSES IN THE SAND.

Washed Ashore From the Wreck of the Steamer Hudson.

HOUGHTON, MICH., Nov. 28.—Fishermen from Manitou island report that the bodies of several of the crew of the wrecked steamer Hudson are buried in the sands along the shore of Keweenaw point, from Bete de Gris to Manitou island.

The bodies are badly decomposed and cannot be identified.

CHRISTMAS TREES LOST.

Schooner Laden With Them Wrecked, but the Crew Rescued.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Nov. 28.—News reached here today by the schooner Lorenie A. Burton, Capt. Peter Hanson, of the capsizing of the schooner Caledonia off Glen Haven, Mich., on Monday during a fierce gale. The crew were rescued from a yawl by the schooner Burton after a terrible experience.

The Caledonia was bound for Milwaukee with a cargo of Christmas trees.

KICK MAY RESULT FATALLY.

Mrs. Mattie Christy Lies in the Hospital in Critical Condition—Was Kicked by Emma Sims.

Mrs. Mattie Christy, who lives in the rear of No. 1123 Bedford avenue, was seriously injured last night, being kicked in the abdomen by Emma Sims in a house at No. 1115 Bedford avenue. Mrs. Christy is lying in a critical condition at the West Penn hospital, while her assailant is a prisoner at the Center avenue police station to await the result of her injuries. Both women are colored.

The two women, with a dozen or so of other negroes, were drinking in the house at which the fight took place. In some manner an argument started, on which the women took opposite sides of the question. A general fight was soon in progress, during which Mrs. Sims is alleged to have kicked Mrs. Christy in the abdomen. The force of the kick was so great as to render Mrs. Christy unconscious. Dr. Frank Elliott was called in, but ordered Mrs. Christy removed to a hospital. She was taken to the West Penn hospital in No. 2 patrol wagon. Mrs. Sims was arrested by Officer Tolman Hughes, and placed in the Center avenue station. At midnight Mrs. Christy was resting easier.

WELSH EISTEDFOD.

Singers Hold Entertainment for Benefit of Striking Miners of North Wales.

The Welsh Eisteddfod for the benefit of the striking quarrymen of Bethesda, North Wales, was held last night at the Welsh Presbyterian church, Second avenue and Cherry alley. The church was crowded and a goodly sum was realized. A number of prizes were offered for the different events and the contests were interesting.

The entertainment was opened by an address by the chairman, the Rev. William Surdival, and during the evening remarks were made by Evan Jones, William Hughes and Miles Humphries.

The contests resulted as follows: Baritone solo, three contestants, David Stevens, Pittsburgh, first prize; recitations, four contestants, Miss Tydil Davis, Pittsburgh, first prize; poetry, four contestants, Joseph M. Francis, Pittsburgh, first prize; duet, four contestants, William E. Jones and Mary E. Jones, first prize; impromptu speech, five contestants, Joseph M. Francis, Pittsburgh, first prize; piano solo, five contestants, Miss Jennie Thomas, Pittsburgh, first prize; recitations by children, five contestants, Mary Powell, Allegheny, first prize; Gretchen Morrow, Pittsburgh, second prize; David Jones, Pittsburgh, third prize. There were seven competitors for the singing of an old Welsh hymn, and among those who took part were Miles Humphries, who sang a song his mother taught him. The prize was awarded to Walter James of Allegheny. The chief choral competition was between five choirs, consisting of 50 voices each. The prize was awarded to the choir of the Second Avenue Welsh Presbyterian church.

HISTORIAN BANCROFT'S WILL.

Over Half a Million to Be Distributed Among Relatives.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(Special.)—More than $500,000 is to be distributed among the heirs of George Bancroft, historian, who died in Washington in 1891. The New York Life Insurance & Trust Company, as trustee, brought suit for a construction of certain clauses of the will and also for an accounting.

Mr. Bancroft was 92 years old at the time of his death. A peculiar feature of his will, executed in 1887, for which no one seemed to understand his reason, was the tying up of the bulk of his fortune until November 1, 1900. Charles C. Glover and James M. Johnson were appointed executors and trustees. Under the will a large part of the estate was turned over to the executors for three years, at the end of which time they were to transfer this property to the New York Life Insurance & Trust Company to be held until November 1, 1900. The will, which is quite complicated, distributes the property in annuities and otherwise among various relatives.

ACTORS WERE DINED.

Allegheny Elks Gave Thanksgiving Dinner to Theatrical People.

Forty-two members of the theatrical troupes playing in Pittsburgh this week attended a banquet early yesterday morning given by the Allegheny lodge No. 339 B. P. O. E. in their club rooms in Cedar avenue. The banquet was in the nature of an old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner which the clubs served at midnight.

After the dinner the members of the troupes entertained their hosts by songs and reminiscences of their stage careers. The Harris quartet rendered several songs, Jim Corbett told of his "fighting days" and others of their careers while on the road. The stock company was represented by William Ingersoll and Miss Truax and Mr. Waldron. It was almost dawn when the assemblage departed.

NEW FILTRATION ORDINANCE.

Councilmanic Committee Will Meet to Authorize Award of Contracts.

The filtration committee of councils will meet Saturday. The call was issued yesterday. An ordinance will be prepared for introduction at the special meeting Monday, authorizing the letting of contracts on 60 per cent of the work.

Former Director Edward M. Bigelow had an ordinance prepared, calling for work to be done worth $1,700,000. This ordinance will be made the basis of the new measure, but the cost will be reduced to $1,100,000. The work for which this amount is to be spent will be specified. The ordinance is expected to pass without trouble and the contracts will be let at once.

REBELS ABOUT TO SURRENDER

Tuesday to ascertain what steps were to be taken to protect the town from possible violence should the state of affairs become more critical. They were assured that marines from the warships would, in case of necessity, be landed to protect life and property.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—A cable dispatch received at the state department from Consul General Gudger, dated Panama today, reads: "Colombians fighting along the railroad."

Naval officers here are disconcerted at the ill feeling exhibited toward Capt. Perry at Panama because he will not allow the railroad to be used for the transportation of armed troops. After a careful examination of the precedents and the treaty under which the United States is now made absolutely responsible for the safety of traffic across the isthmus, they declare that Capt. Perry had no alternative. Had he allowed the Colombian government forces to use the railroad on the Panama end as they desired he must of necessity have yielded the same right to the Liberals, who hold the Colon end of the line. The result would inevitably have been conflicts at the divisional line which would prevent the free transit that Capt. Perry is there to maintain. Therefore his attitude is held by the navy department to be entirely correct.

However, the fact is recognized that the situation is dangerous from an international point of view.

INSURGENT GENERAL KILLED IN A BATTLE

Regulars Said to Be Killing Their Own Wounded and Also Prisoners Looting on Field.

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.)
(Copyright, 1901, by the New York Herald Co.)

COLON, Nov. 28.—Gen. Francisco Castro, who led the government troops in the capture of the Barbacoas bridge on Tuesday, was killed early this morning during an engagement with the insurgent force at Bohia Soldado. Gen. Castro has been acting as second in command of the government forces on the isthmus.

According to insurgents, about 100 of the federal troops were killed in the fight in which Gen. Castro met death.

It is reported by some of the insurgents that the government troops shot some of their badly-wounded men and also several prisoners. It is also said they rifled the clothes of their dead comrades.

The revolutionists are still holding an important position at Bohia Soldado. Gen. Barrera is in command. The government force is entrenched in Buena Vista.

And we give you pretty boxes for them. Use your best ingenuity for trimming the boxes.

Candidly we don't know where to begin the description of these Christmas Handkerchiefs, nor can we call up enough clever adjectives to fit them.

Suppose we cut the remarks as short as possible and ask you to come and go through the lines with us.

As to lace effects in trimming, we never had such a pleasing variety; as to colors combined with white, there are so many roseate hues the telling of them would require the learning of a botanist.

One thing you are sure to be pleased with—the new location of the department. It occupies a large section of the street floor of the annex and is admirably fitted with all comforts for shopping.

Women's Bath Robes.

The above are the extremes of prices in this second floor Wrapper department. There is a great range of in-between prices.

Women's Neckwear.

PENN AND FIFTH.

GAINS CLAIMED BY BOTH SIDES

Thanksgiving Day Was Very Quiet for the Striking Switchmen.

SITUATION PRACTICALLY UNCHANGED

Statements Issued by Parties to the Struggle Do Not Agree, but Show That Freight Congestion Has Been Aggravated.

Thanksgiving day in the switchmen's strike passed quietly with claims of gains by both sides. Railway managers asserted that conditions had greatly improved within the previous 24 hours.

Pittsburgh & Lake Erie officials said that there is not an engine idle in their yards. They announced that they had been notified that the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston had raised the embargo set when the strike began, and had sent out notices that they were ready to handle the freight of other roads.

Baltimore & Ohio officials said they added several new crews yesterday. They admitted that none of the old men had returned, but said their places had been filled with new men.

The Pennsylvania road managers said every engine in the local yards was working and that all trains are going out as usual.

The Pittsburgh Junction road announced the addition of several new crews yesterday and claimed to be moving freight reasonably well.

The managers of the Allegheny Valley road admit that their local freight traffic is in bad shape, but assert they are moving through passenger and freight trains promptly. They say they have 12 engine crews idle. Several new crews have been put on, but they are unfamiliar with the yards and their movements are consequently slow.

Switchmen's Statement.

An official statement issued last night by the switchmen gives the following as the condition of affairs:

Buffalo & Allegheny division of the Pennsylvania—Road tied up, situation remaining unchanged; 14 day crews and 12 night crews idle; one crew, made up of officials, at work; men brought in from points on the low grade division refused to work, being unfamiliar with their duties and declaring that the situation had been misrepresented to them.

Pittsburgh & Western division of the Baltimore & Ohio—Situation unchanged; all regular crews idle; one crew of officials at work.

Pittsburgh & Lake Erie—Road crippled and feeling the effects of the strike; tieup expected at change of turns this morning.

Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston division of the Pennsylvania—Nineteen crews idle; situation unchanged; two or three scrub crews at work.

Baltimore & Ohio—Traffic practically at a standstill; congestion aggravated and imported men leaving.

Pennsylvania—Traffic badly crippled, men leaving steadily.

Pittsburgh Junction division of the Baltimore & Ohio—Fires pulled and engines sent to the Glenwood shops; Italian placed in charge of locomotive led last desertion.

Mill crews along the Allegheny Valley all idle.

Two Big Meetings.

The switchmen held two big meetings yesterday, one at Americus hall, Lawrenceville and one at McKees Rocks. About 900 men attended the former, Thomas G. Meaney, journal agent of the union, making the principal address. A secret session followed the open meeting, and at its close Mr. Meaney said that 55 men had been initiated, in addition to the 116 taken in Wednesday night. These men, it is said, come principally from the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

At the McKees Rocks meeting the principal address was delivered by Second Vice Grand Master J. D. Hughes. The attendance was large and enthusiastic, and a number of recruits were received. The men renewed their determination to stand firm. Several men present declared they had been brought from the west under misrepresentation by the railroads.

Great activity was in evidence at the Glenwood yards of the Baltimore & Ohio all day yesterday. Yardmaster Burke and a score of assistants were busy breaking in about 25 men, said to have been imported from the east. They are quartered in box cars for the present. Special officers are on guard at the yards.

At the Allegheny Valley yards but one engine was at work yesterday. Yardmaster O. J. Price was conductor of the crew. A number of commission merchants having vegetables tied up at the produce yards put stoves in the cars last night to guard against freezing.

All the crews at the Port Perry, McKeesport and Versailles yards are reported out. Seven crews at the Union railroad yards at Brinton are out, but the large number of crews employed makes this handicap of little account.

Relations between the switchmen and the trainmen are badly strained. The switchmen say Grand Master Morrisey of the trainmen did not act properly in refusing to allow his men to indorse the strike. On the other hand, the trainmen accuse the switchmen of acting without consulting the other federations of railway employes. If this had been done, they say, the advance in wages could have been secured without trouble. The bitterness over the matter is increasing daily.

Striking switchmen held a meeting in McKeesport last night at Haber's hall. Officials of the union from Pittsburgh addressed the meeting. A general strike order was issued for the city of McKeesport. This will call out ten crews on the Baltimore & Ohio and 20 crews employed by the tube works and the Monongahela furnaces. It is likely the McKeesport lodge of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen will ignore the strike.

QUAY'S THANKSGIVING.

He Eats His Turkey at Home With Only His Family—Quiet Day at the White House.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—Senator Quay is rallying from the fresh cold that he caught, and is again improving. The cough at night is less troublesome, and he is able to secure more rest and sleep. He spent the day quietly at home and ate his turkey in company with Mrs. Quay, their son, Richard R. Quay, their daughters and little granddaughter, Agnes Quay Davidson.

Thanksgiving day passed very quietly at the White House. There were no official callers. President Roosevelt came early to the office, before the employes were there, and finding nothing to engage his attention, started off for a walk. Although there was a snapping northwest wind blowing, and this was the first day of real wintry weather, with a slight fall of snow on the ground, the president wore no overcoat, but clad in a closely-buttoned box coat and wholly unattended, he walked to the home of Secretary Root. Interrupting Mr. Root at his morning work, the president carried him off and the two went out into the suburbs for a "constitutional."

The White House dinner was set for 7:30 o'clock this evening, and it was said there would be no guests outside of the immediate family circle.

Cleveland Nearly Well.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 28.—Ex-President Cleveland will be able to leave his room in a few days. He is still gaining in strength every day and is in excellent spirits.

THE VICTOR.

Young Corbett.

THE VANQUISHED

Terry McGovern.

TERRIBLE TERRY IS KNOCKED OUT BY YOUNG CORBETT

York, in two minutes and 21 seconds, a representative of the club mounted the platform and tested the supports of the ring, to see that everything was in shape for the big event. Manager Crowley followed with a new set of gloves. On reaching the ringside Mr. Crowley submitted the gloves to Chief of Police Bill, who inspected them closely and handed them back to the club manager, who placed them in the center of the ring. This formality over, the floor of the ring was rosined to prevent either of the principals slipping during the contest.

Shortly after Mayor Harbison appeared and was given a rousing reception by the sports. The mayor was introduced to Charlie White, the referee of the bout, and the two men held an animated conversation for several minutes. The mayor told the referee not to allow any brutality and to see that the contest did not go beyond the limits prescribed for a scientific exhibition of the manly art.

Young Corbett First to Appear.

Young Corbett was the first to appear. He was given quite an ovation when he climbed through the ropes. He was clad in a red and black sweater and light colored trousers. Both hands were incased in heavy bandages. McGovern followed a few minutes later. He wore a heavy, dark blue sweater and black trousers. His hands were also heavily bandaged. Corbett's seconds were Johnny Corbett of Denver, Bob Armstrong and Charley Segar. McGovern's advisers were Sam Harris, Charley Mayhood and Charley Kelly.

While the men were taking off the sweaters and trousers, challenges were read from Dave Sullivan and Charley Frazier, featherweight of England. Harris, on behalf of McGovern, said that the little Brooklynite would make a match with Sullivan as soon as the latter posted a forfeit with a responsible sporting man.

When Charlie White called the boys to the ring for final instructions McGovern appeared stripped to the waist and wearing pink trunks. Corbett also appeared, stripped to the waist and wearing black trunks.

Corbett Made a Good Impression.

Comment on the appearance of the men was made by prominent sporting men near the ringside. The majority appeared to think that the champion looked as well as ever. Corbett's appearance evoked many favorable comments. Those who caught a glimpse of the stocky Colorado pugilist for the first time were favorably impressed. The opinion prevailed that if the aspirant for featherweight honors was all he claimed to be as a boxer he would give McGovern the battle of his career.

White cautioned the men against employing unfair tactics and then ordered them to their corners. A rest of a moment followed. Then Tom Foley, the timekeeper of the club, struck the gong, and the battle for the featherweight championship of the world was on. As they stepped up for the fight McGovern appeared at a slight advantage in height.

Immediately the bell sounded both boys sprang to the center, McGovern leading and landing lightly with the left on the nose. He quickly followed with the right on the ear and got away from a terrific left counter.

Both Fought Fast.

They separated and Corbett shot a stiff left to the body and received a right on the ear in return. They clinched and a hot mix-up followed. The referee ordered them to break, which they did quickly. Again Corbett rushed, sending in a left to the head, avoiding a vicious swing intended for the jaw. McGovern led, missed with the left to the body and Corbett countered smartly with the right on the chin. A terrific mix-up followed, during which they exchanged heavy body blows.

Terry then rushed again to avoid the ropes and landed heavily with the right over the heart. Corbett rushed, missed and cleverly avoided a right hand swing aimed for the jaw. The young westerner led again and scored smartly with the right on the ribs. They mixed it up and McGovern struck several blows, after being cautioned by the referee of the club. For this he was hissed. A left on the nose caused the westerner to sniffle, but he quickly came back with a right in the short ribs. They were fighting hard at close range when the bell sounded. Honors were even.

Science Was Abandoned.

Both responded quickly to the call of time, Terry rushing out of his corner and scoring with the left on the body. In the next mix-up Corbett was the aggressor, sending two hard lefts to Terry's chin. The champion retaliated with a hard left to the body and right on the ribs. They mixed it up in rapid style, with honors easy. On the breakaway McGovern gave Young Corbett a terrific smash on the jaw. Then McGovern rushed and Corbett scored a knockdown with a terrific right hand uppercut. Terry was badly dazed and took the full count before rising, and was very unsteady on his feet.

Picking himself together, McGovern rushed terrifically at the westerner, and scored with fearful force on the body, sending him to his knees. To save himself from further punishment Corbett clinched, but body blows from Terry forced the Denverite back, and then a terrific slugging exhibition followed.

Science was cast to the winds. It was slam-bang-biff, each scoring hard and often on the face and body. First one would have the advantage, then the other. It was terrific work, and the crowd went wild with delight.

McGovern Was Knocked Out.

Suddenly Corbett backed away and, rushing in, swung the left with great force on the chin, and quickly followed with a right to the jaw, sending the champion to the floor and scoring a knockout. Terry rolled about on the floor and tried to raise himself, but his efforts were unequal to his ambition, and he only succeeded in raising his head a short distance from the boards. In the meantime the referee started to count, while the crowd waited with almost breathless impatience to see whether the champion would come up within the prescribed limit of 10 seconds.

Terry was no longer terrible. He was down and out. He had met a hurricane fighter, whose blows were irresistible, and he lay on the floor a defeated champion, but was on his feet five seconds after being declared a defeated man. When he got up he was very groggy, and the kindly hands of his trainers assisted him to his corner. When McGovern received the knockout blow he fell flat on his back, his head striking the floor with fearful force. The time of fighting in the second round was one minute and 46 seconds.

Winners on the Fight.

Eddie Burke was the heaviest winner on Corbett's victory. He realized about $20,000. From Corbett's first appearance in the east Burke admired the Denver boy, but he did not make a bet until the odds reached 2½ to 1. Then he sent out his commission in lots of $500 and $1,000. At the ringside Burke got on several wagers at 3 and 4 to 1. When seen after the contest Burke said:

"I always take the short end of a bet in a fight. I liked Young Corbett's appearance, and believing that he had a good chance to win, I bet on him. The odds were not consistent with Corbett's record. The result convinces me perfectly of that. I think Corbett is the greatest man of his weight and inches in the world."

John Considine, Lew Louis and George Considine also won.

When the call was heard for the second round both bounded to the center of the ring and went merrily to work. McGovern was willing to force the fighting, but somehow Corbett would not be forced. Without invitation, he walked Terry back into his corner and there gave him a sound drubbing, taking an equal amount without loss of equanimity. The champion was displeased about it, and he caught Corbett's right and under his left arm and then started operations with his own good right. The crowd hissed, but Corbett fought his way clear. Suddenly the stranger jumped in, shot out his right and McGovern went down. He came to one knee dazed, and took a count of eight before going on.

McGovern Became Enraged.

Like an enraged bull McGovern darted after his antagonist. The two met near the center and fought until each was dazed. For a fraction of a minute it appeared to the excited spectators as though Corbett was going the way of all his predecessors. But right there he proved his superior intelligence. He went in close and guarded himself well until he could get his bearings. His left went out with a jolt that brought distress to McGovern.

There was a picture of the champion so dazed that he could not protect himself, but he was recovering. Then Corbett's right shot forward and connected with the champion's jaw. There are middle weights of reputation who cannot hit a blow with the force that Corbett put behind that one.

McGovern went up into the air, his feet leaving the rosined floor. Over backward he went, his head striking the mat long before his heels came down.

There was the champion at full length and helpless, his arms outstretched. His eyes were glazed against the referee, who stood over him counting off the inexorable seconds that took from him all the laurels to possess which he had struggled so hard, and of which he was so proud.

Fight Told by Rounds.

The story of the fight as told by rounds is as follows:

Round one—McGovern tried for an opening with his left and sent the right to Corbett's jaw. They clinched. In the mix-up both landed lefts. They exchanged lefts on the face and McGovern, rushing again, sent his left to the body and right to the head. Corbett was short on his leads and Terry bored him to the ropes with a hard right over the heart. McGovern ducked a left swing and landed his right clean on the eye, forcing Corbett to the ropes. Corbett came back pluckily with a left on the body which was countered with a right over the heart from his opponent. McGovern led again with his right, landing on his opponent's shoulder and Corbett came back with a hard right over the heart, sending McGovern backward, but the Brooklyn boy retorted with right and left, only to be met with a swing on the jaw, which sent him on his back. He jumped to his feet immediately and went at his opponent, hammer and tongs, on the chest and face, forcing him to his knees. Corbett got up and the round ended in one of the hottest mixes on record, with honors about even.

Round two—McGovern rushed in with a left to the body and the men clinched. A rapid exchange of rights and lefts followed, Corbett was on the defensive and met Terry's rushes with straight left jabs. Suddenly he brought up his left, uppercutting McGovern and sending him to the floor. McGovern took five seconds of the count and came back like a wild man with left and right swings. Science was thrown to the winds and the boys began slugging. McGovern was very wild and they made a half circle of the ring, fighting in this manner. At this stage it looked like anybody's fight should one of the vicious swinging blows land. While Corbett kept his head and seemed to bore in better, his body blows were apparently no stiffer than those of his opponent. However, he kept on forcing McGovern half across the ring and finally Terry forgot his defense. He simply saw a hurricane of blows coming toward him and there was no guarding on his part. Suddenly a right swing uppercut landed squarely on the point of his jaw and McGovern went down and out. He was not rendered unconscious, but it was evident to all present that he knew the minutes the new champion was in his dressing room receiving congratulations, while McGovern was wondering how it all happened.

CORBETT WAS CONFIDENT.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 28, 1901.
Editor Pittsburgh Gazette:

I can only say I am glad I won, and was certain all the time that I would win. McGovern's blows didn't distress me in the least. There never was a time when I was not looking for a chance to put my right to his jaw. When I saw that he was groggy I hooked him with my left, and then brought the other over and finished the job. So far as Kennedy's $10,000 offer is concerned I won't say anything about it at this time. I surely will defend the championship, but I think I am entitled to a little time before making a match with anybody.

McGOVERN'S EXPLANATION.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 28, 1901.
Editor Pittsburgh Gazette:

I think I had the best of the fight up to the time I went down in the second round and struck the back of my head on the floor. After that I was dazed, and in the mix-up that followed Corbett caught me on the point of the jaw, and that settled it. Corbett is not the featherweight champion, as we didn't fight at 122 pounds. But that doesn't make any difference. I will fight him again at any weight. Sam Harris has already accepted Jim Kennedy's offer of a $10,000 purse for Corbett and me to fight in San Francisco. We are willing to make the match at once, and I am sure I can redeem myself. Harris will make a side bet on me for any amount the other side wishes.

TERRY McGOVERN.

PRAISE FOR THE VICTOR

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 28, 1901.
Editor Pittsburgh Gazette:

It was without doubt the fastest, cleanest and fairest featherweight fight I ever saw. From the time the gong sounded for the first round until the knockout blow was delivered, I don't think either had the advantage. At that McGovern didn't fight as well as he usually does.

While his blows appeared to be harder than Young Corbett's they were not delivered with as good judgment. Terry swung wilder at times than I ever saw him. Young Corbett put up an excellent fight throughout and justified the reputation he made in the west.

CHARLEY WHITE.

FERNS GOT THE DECISION.

The Spectators Hissed the Referee's Ruling.

DETROIT, MICH., Nov. 28.—Rube Ferns of Buffalo was given the decision over Charlie Thurston of San Francisco after 15 rounds of fast fighting tonight. Referee Hinson, however, appeared to be alone in his belief from the evidence of disapproval among the spectators who remained for some time after the bout to express their dissatisfaction in hisses and howles of derision. Thurston was much the quicker on his feet, and ducked and blocked beautifully. Ferns' blows, however, were more effective and this undoubtedly gave him the decision.

CHINAMEN KILLED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—The Chinese quarter of the city was the scene of two shooting affrays today, in which two Chinese were killed and a third fatally wounded. Early tonight Lou Fook, a Chinese gambler, and his bodyguard, Jue Bo, were shot at by two Highbinders, as the two former were entering Fook's gambling house in Waverly place. Fook was mortally wounded. Bo was only slightly injured. Shortly after the shooting the police arrested Lee You, one of the assailants.

About 15 minutes after the shooting Quang Louey, a cigar dealer, and Suey Buck were shot and killed in their rooms in Clay street. It has not yet been determined whether there is any connection between the two events.

WOLCOTT THE WINNER.

Young Peter Jackson Was Game, But Got a Bad Beating.

BALTIMORE, MD., Nov. 28.—"Joe" Walcott got the decision over "Young Peter" Jackson before the Eureka Athletic club here tonight after 20 rounds of perhaps the fiercest fighting ever seen in this city, most of which was done by Walcott Jackson being on the defensive from start to finish.

Walcott sailed in from the very first with the evident intention of finishing his man as soon as possible, and rained blow after blow upon the Californian. One round was merely a repetition of the other, Walcott doing all the leading and Jackson defending himself as well as he could. In the eighth, Jackson managed to get in a good jab on the face, but Walcott pounded him so hard over the heart and kidneys that he soon had him groggy. The gong saved Jackson, who came up a little bit stronger in the next round, but with his right eye completely closed and the blood flowing in streams from his left ear. From this time on to the finish it was simply a question of whether Walcott could hit his man often enough and hard enough to put him out. The Californian, however, took his grueling with remarkable fortitude.

FRIENDS TRIED VAINLY TO PREVENT SUICIDE

Had Ex-City Treasurer Young Been Found in Time He Would Probably Be Still Alive.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Nov. 28.—Beyond the statement made last night to Mayor Granger by one of the expert accountants that discrepancies amounting to $28,000 has been found in the books of the former city treasurer, Stuart R. Young, who committed suicide last evening, nothing definite is known as to how the accounts stand between the city and its former treasurer. When asked for an authoritative statement tonight, one of the accountants said that beyond the amount mentioned last night, he had absolutely no idea as to what the alleged shortage is. He added that the accountants would require two weeks to go over the books of the treasurer's office. During his four years' term as city treasurer, Mr. Young handled $11,000,000.

From developments today, it seems absolutely certain that if Young had been found by his friends who were looking for him yesterday afternoon, he would be alive now. His brother, Lawrence Young of Chicago was taking a train for Louisville when a telegram was handed him, saying Stuart Young was dead. Before the suicide occurred, friends of Stuart Young had communicated with Lawrence Young and the latter had replied that he would come at once to Louisville.

This, it is said, was unknown to Stuart Young. It became known today that several of Young's friends, having heard reports about the condition of the former city treasurer's accounts, before newspaper publication was made of them, had arranged a tentative plan to secure any aid for him that might be needed. Their plan was frustrated merely by the fact that yesterday afternoon they were unable to find Young. He seems to have spent the afternoon away from the business part of the city. Yesterday morning, Young asked for his revolver at the desk of the Louisville hotel, where he lived.

A MILLION DOLLAR FIRE.

New York Blaze, When Under Control, Started Up Again by Careless Work of Fireman.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(Special.)—A fire that resulted in a loss of nearly $1,000,000 broke out early this evening in the plant of W. E. Uptegrove & Bros., manufacturers of boxes, veneers and fine woodwork, near Tenth street and the East river. The cause of the fire is unknown. Several firemen were hurt, but none seriously.

After the fire was thought to be under control it broke out again and spread to the works of the Mutual Gas Company. This outbreak was caused by a fireman dropping a burning window sash into the street. The street was flooded with water on which was a thick coating of oil. This ignited and the flames leaped into the gas company's property.

The fire then turned back across the street and the immense store of lumber owned by Hegemeyer & Sons was ignited. The lumber yards of J. M. Saulpaugh were also reached by the flames and great damage done.

Fire Chief Croker estimated at a late hour tonight that the total damage would approach $1,000,000. He estimated that the loss to J. M. Saulpaugh will be $125,000; William E. Uptegrove & Bros., $320,000; the Mutual Gas Company, $100,000; G. M. Hegemeyer, $150,000 and the Standard Oil Company, $75,000.

ONE OF THE PULLMAN TWINS DIES OUT WEST

George M., Whose Marital Troubles Became Famous, Passes Away at the Age of 26.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Nov. 28.—George M. Pullman, son of the late millionaire car builder, died at his country home at San Mateo this morning, aged 26. He had been ill several weeks with pneumonia, but until Tuesday his condition was not considered serious. On that day he suffered a severe relapse and grew steadily weaker. Arrangements are being made to take the body to Chicago for interment.

The deceased was married for the second time a few weeks ago at Reno, Nev., to Mrs. Brazell.

George M. Pullman and his twin brother, Sanger, as the sons of the late George M. Pullman, were born to wealth and luxury. Both boys from their earliest youth had every wish gratified.

When their father died both were engaged to be married. George was engaged to Miss Ossesby, daughter of the then governor of Illinois, and Sanger to Miss Fernald. When it was learned that George M. Pullman had left the boys unprovided for in his will both engagements were declared off by the parents of the young women.

George met Miss Fernald in the White mountains and they were secretly married. Later he and his wife separated and he was alleged to have appeared at the theatre, in New York city, with Mrs. Frederick N. Bowers, registering as George M. Pullman, Mrs. Pullman and maid. Fredrick N. Bowers later brought suit against him. Of late George had been very quiet and his troubles, if he had any, have been kept within the bosom of his immediate family.

Nervous Exhaustion.

Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer cures this most common form of nervous disease with absolute certainty and permanency.

C. DE VOS, Coopersville, Mich. CURED OF NERVOUS EXHAUSTION —BY— WHEELER'S NERVE VITALIZER.

We desire to direct attention to the second letter written by Mr. De Vos five years after he was cured. It shows that a cure by Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer is always permanent.

"I broke down with nervous exhaustion and sleeplessness. Could not sleep until worn out, my appetite failed me and I had to choke down what little I did eat. My attention was directed to Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer and I concluded to try it. It had a wonderful effect on me; in a few nights I was able to get all the sleep needed, my appetite returned and became as ravenous as a wolf's, my weight increased twelve pounds, my mind became clear and active; in fact, I was restored to health and I look and feel an entirely different man."

Five years later Mr. De Vos wrote as follows:

"In reply to yours of the 26th inst., would say that I wrote a testimonial for Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer some five years ago and it had the effect then stated. The cure has been a permanent one, and I am enjoying better health and weigh more than I have for years. I can heartily recommend this remedy for sleeplessness and run-down constitutions. C. De Vos, Coopersville, Mich."

There is no form of nervous disease from Sleeplessness or Weakness to Nervous Prostration and Epileptic Fits that will not yield to Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer. Proof will be sent to anyone making the request.

TRADE EXPERT TELLS BRITONS WHY AMERICA IS DISTANCING THEM

Conclusion Is England Is Slow in Adopting Labor-Saving Machinery.

TALK ON RECIPROCITY

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Sixteen reporters and six British business men gathered this afternoon in response to the London chamber of commerce's general invitation to hear Seymour Bell, the commercial agent of Great Britain in the United States, expound his views on American trade competition.

He said what America wanted from abroad is daily getting smaller, but that Great Britain is being cut out of even her small portion of the market by France and Germany. Mr. Bell attributed this to Great Britain's backwardness in using labor-saving and automatic machinery. He declared the working classes of Great Britain must be educated up to them and he convinced that their use is essential before Great Britain can compete with America.

Mr. Bell also said there is no doubt the reciprocity movement in the United States would result in the removal or reduction of many of the duties now enforced, but it would be in the case of articles in which the United States is quite safe from foreign competition.

Mr. Bell said there is a growing need for tea and Scotch whisky in the United States. The statement disclosed the fact that India and Ceylon tea merchants had entered into a pooling arrangement to promote the sale of their brands in the United States.

The commercial agent denied the statement that American cement is inferior to Portland cement.

One of the few merchants present declared that American trade is completely ousting British trade from Central and South America.

Discussing what becomes of old men in America, Mr. Bell said a man over 45 years of age has hard work to get any position there, and that this is one of the most serious factors of future American business life.

Scotch whisky, it was said, is now being made in New York and exported in large quantities to South America.

Mr. Bell reassured his hearers that there is no prejudice in America against British goods, only they could not expect them to be bought when, as in the case of agricultural machinery, the American article is lighter, more durable and cheaper; for could the colonies be blamed for patronizing America in preference to Great Britain in this branch of machinery. He praised the specialization adopted by American manufacturers, and concluded by declaring that while nothing which could not be remedied exists to prevent Great Britain from holding her own, her manufacturers must get more modern machinery and must compel their employes to use it.

Mr. Merry expects to leave here December 3 for Costa Rica.

Battle Abbey Was Purchased by an English Baronet, Whose Family Formerly Owned Building.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The mystery surrounding the sale of Battle Abbey at public auction has been solved by the announcement that Sir Augustus Frederick Webster, Bart., is the purchaser.

The new owner is a descendant of Sir Thomas Webster, who bought the abbey from Viscount Montague in 1719 and whose family retained possession of it for 130 years.

A CABINET MINISTER OBLIGED TO EXPLAIN SALISBURY'S SPEECH

Premier Does Not Intend to Deprive Boers of Last Shred of Home Rule.

WOULD ACCEPT TERMS

LONDON, Nov. 28.—In the course of an important speech at Croydon last night C. T. Ritchie, secretary of state for home affairs, declared that Premier Salisbury's statement that "No shred of independence should be left to the republics," had been twisted and contorted in a way Lord Salisbury never intended.

"It was not intended," he said, "that the Boers should not have a representative in the government, or that we insisted upon unconditional surrender except in the sense that we could not again offer the terms which had been rejected.

"If any general representing the Boers in arms had made a proposition of peace on the conditions that the Boers should, in the course of time, have a representative in the government, he was satisfied such a proposition would be referred home by Lord Kitchener and would form a basis for the conclusion of peace.

"We desired a termination of hostilities," concluded Mr. Ritchie, "so that Boer and Briton could live together in peace and amity, and the same extraordinary success which has attended the British administration of Egypt would be repeated in South Africa if the Boers would only frankly acknowledge their defeat and ask for terms."

Tidal Wave on English Coast.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—A remarkable tidal wave, accompanied by strong winds, has done much damage along the eastern coast of England from Norfolk to Kent. Rivers have overflowed their banks, dams and sea walls have been invaded and miles of country have been submerged.

THE MARKS MYSTERY STILL UNEXPLAINED

Police Believe the Bookmaker Killed Himself—Bookkeeper Missing.

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.)
(Copyright, 1901, by the New York Herald Co.)

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Have Goudie, the alleged Liverpool bank robber, and the bookmaker, Laurie Marks, really committed suicide, or are they still in hiding? These questions are asked of everybody by everybory today.

According to the feeling at Scotland yards, Marks has thrown away his life. This is also the opinion of Marks' brother George, who said today he had received no further information regarding the supposed tragedy. He had gone so far as to cable to his brother and sister in New York that Lawrence was dead.

As to Goudie, the London police believe he is hiding in London. They have received a report that last Monday a man inquired for a room at a hotel in Euston road, but as the hotel was full he was turned away. It was only the next morning that the hotel people, on getting a description of Goudie, were struck by his resemblance to the applicant of the previous night, and being shown a photograph of Goudie, identified him as the man wanted. Why the police attach importance to this is that nothing is more likely than that a fugitive from the north should have applied for a bedroom at a hotel near one or the other London termini.

Another report comes from Liverpool that a man answering Goudie's description applied for a berth as a sailor on a steamer last Thursday and was told to come back next day, but failed to put in an appearance. This, according to the police, is the last clew that they have to Goudie.

ITO SEES THE CZAR.

Japanese Statesman Has a Long Conference With Russian Autocrat at Tsarkoe-Selo.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 28.—The czar granted an audience to Marquis Ito, the Japanese statesman, at Tsarkoe-Selo this afternoon and later Count Lamsdorff, the Russian foreign minister, gave a gala dinner in honor of the visitors.

An effective entente between Russia and Japan is regarded as the probable outcome of the audience between the czar and Marquis Ito, although it is not anticipated that permanent or binding obligations will be undertaken by either government.

DAY OBSERVED IN LONDON.

Prominent Americans and Britons Gathered at the American Embassy.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—A brilliant Thanksgiving day reception was held at the American embassy here tonight. American business and private houses were decorated with the stars and stripes during the day.

Three hundred guests assembled this evening for the Thanksgiving dinner given under the auspices of the American society in London. John Morgan Richards was in the chair.

M. Paul Cambon, the French ambassador to Great Britain, proposed the health of President Roosevelt. Henry White, the United States charge d'affaires, responded to the toast, "The Charge d'Affaires," proposed by Justice Walton. M. Cambon paid a feeling tribute to the late President McKinley. While President Roosevelt was an unknown quantity in the world, said M. Cambon, his was a cultured, energetic and charming personality, and his elevation to the presidency had been received in France with the happiest anticipations of carrying on those cordial relations which had existed between the two countries for over a century past.

Mr. White, during his speech, said it was the time for family talks and that he hoped to be forgiven if he referred to that American prosperity which made the secretary of the United States treasury the envy of the treasury secretaries of the world. Mr. White then spoke highly of President Roosevelt, whose ability, courage and steadfastness of purpose could not, he said, fail to produce a great effect for the welfare of all the nations of the universe.

Conan Doyle, the novelist, produced perhaps the greatest effect of the evening by declaring the pendulum of the British world had now shifted to somewhere between New York and Chicago.

The other speakers were Anthony Hope, the novelist; Admiral Sir Edmund Robert Fremantle, and Maj. Gen. Sir John Charles Ardagh, director of military intelligence in the war office.

U. S. TRANSPORT WRECKED.

The Wright Goes Down in 15 Feet of Water and Is a Total Loss.

MANILA, Nov. 28.—The United States transport Wright has been wrecked in the straits of Darman. She will probably turn out to be a total loss.

The Wright struck on an unchartered rock at the entrance of San Jacinto and sank in 15 feet of water. To raise her will require wrecking machinery, which is not available here.

The United States transport Wright, formerly the Aid, was originally a fruiter and was presented to the government by some patriotic women of Boston, when the Spanish war broke out, to be used as a hospital ship. Later she was fitted out as a dispatch boat and was sent to Cuba to be used by Gen. Wood. More recently she was sent to the Philippine islands as a dispatch boat and storeship. She had a refrigerating plant and a refrigerated storeroom, which made her of great value in the islands. The Wright was first called the Bay State. This was before she was transformed into a hospital ship.

Americans in Berlin Make Merry in Honor of Thanksgiving Day. Church Corner Stone Laid.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—American residents of Berlin to the number of 300 informally celebrated Thanksgiving day with a supper and dance at the Kaiserhof this evening. Owing to the mourning for the late President McKinley members of the United States embassy here were not present at the gathering.

The corner stone of the new American church here was laid today by United States Ambassador Andrew D. White. In his speech on the occasion Mr. White emphasized the broad and liberal character of the undertaking, which ignored all denominational bounds.

CHINESE LOAN ACCEPTED.

French Chamber of Deputies Insists, However, on Throwing Out Two of the Submitted Clauses.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—The chamber of deputies today by a vote of 325 to 218 adopted the Chinese loan after rejecting two paragraphs of the final article that the commission had inserted against the wish of the government, and that would have excluded religious congregations from the benefits of the loan.

These paragraphs also provided that indemnities be distributed to private claimants only as China paid the instalments. Both paragraphs were thrown out by big majorities.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

HANOVER, PA., Nov. 28.—The Rev. Dr. D. J. Hauer died at his home in this place last night in his 96th year. Death was caused by paralysis of the lungs, induced by catarrh.

Dr. Hauer was born in Frederick, Md., and was ordained to the ministry in the Lutheran church in 1825. He occupied the pulpit regularly for 69 years, and during that time held charges in four states. He met many of the survivors of the revolution, and was intimate with Gen. Lafayette. MINERS FELL 700 FEET.

Eight Men Injured in a Shaft at Masontown and Three May Die.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—At the Lambert mine, near Masontown, eight men, after dropping a distance of 700 feet down a mine shaft, were all brought to the surface, living, but with small hopes of saving the lives of three of them. The men had gathered at the mouth of the shaft this morning ready to descend for their day's work. Just as the eight had got aboard the cage dropped down the dark pit.

The cage on the opposite side of the shaft was immediately loaded with a rescue party and descended. The injured men were all lying on the floor of the shattered cage. They were picked up with crushed chests and broken arms and legs. One man's skull was fractured. All were unconscious. The men were all removed to the Cottage State hospital here at noon. Two of the injured miners were Americans and the other six Hungarians. The names of but three of them could be learned tonight. They are Peter Babyok, Steve Lobtinska and Vincent Contay. At the hospital the physicians say three of the men cannot recover, while the remainder of the party may be fatally injured.

WOKE UP THE PREACHER.

Citizens of Clarksburg, W. Va., Objected to Church Being Continually Open.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—A delegation of citizens aroused the Rev. W. F. Tyree from his slumbers last midnight and entered a strong protest against his keeping the Methodist Episcopal church south open at all hours of the night. After a stormy interview the preacher agreed to keep the church locked at night.

Later the chief of police visited the Rev. Mr. Tyree and notified him not to continue the practice of keeping the church open. This action was taken through fear that the church might be set on fire and endanger adjacent buildings. It has been the practice of the Rev. Mr. Tyree for some time to keep the church open, lighted and heated continually for the purpose, he said, of permitting persons to enter the edifice of worship at all times.

MISS M. L. COSTLOW BECOMES BRIDE

Young Woman Who Was Betrothed to Rosslyn Ferrell is Married.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28.—Mary Lillian Costlow and William Albert Nunn were married today at St. Dominic's church, the Rev. T. J. O'Reilly officiating. The groom is a brother of John I. Nunn, treasurer-elect of Cuyahoga county.

Miss Costlow's unfortunate betrothal with Rosslyn Ferrell, ending in Ferrell's electrocution for the murder of Charles Lane, a fellow express messenger, gained her so much unpleasant notoriety a year ago that all concerned desired the wedding to be extremely quiet, and no one was invited outside of the two family circles. This did not prevent quite a concourse of the neighbors and other sightseers from filling the church. Miss Nellie Keenan of this city and Dr. Burt Davis of Cleveland were the bridesmaid and best man.

For 15 years the members of these two fire companies have had Thanksgiving dinner at the Seventh Avenue hotel. The firemen yesterday, however, had to cut out a course, as fire broke out in the wholesale house of J. C. Hill & Sons, No. 1007 Liberty street, while they were at the table.

Broke Records Yesterday—The Carnegie mills at Homestead, Duquesne and Braddock celebrated Thanksgiving by breaking records in the production of steel. For some time the steel mills have been pushed to their utmost capacity by the unprecedented demand for steel and orders were too urgent yesterday to permit of any suspension and the plants did not stop. Fichter was passing a plank up to another workman on the second floor. He let go, thinking the man above had hold of the plank, but the latter failed to catch it and it fell down on Fichter's head. The deceased was 53 years of age and married.

Interrupted a Duel—The presence of Officer Harry Myers at Webster avenue and Chatham street last night put a sudden stop to a duel between two Italians and probably prevented a double murder. Myers turned the corner and saw the men quarreling. He hurried toward them, but before he reached them he saw the men step apart. Each drew a revolver and fired at the other. Myers called to them and they turned and started to run in opposite directions. One of the men stopped and, turning about, fired several shots at the fleeing figure of the other man. The latter then stopped and began to return the fire, when Myers kicked the pistol out of his hand and arrested him. The other Italian was caught by citizens on Sixth avenue. At Central station the men gave the names of Walter Palto and Rocco Costello. Costello threw his revolver away before he was caught. The men refused to tell what they had been fighting about. Neither of the men were injured.

CONQUEROR OF VILLARD NOW IN SANITARIUM.

When Elijah Smith Was Beaten in the Railroad Game His Spirits and Purse Were Broken.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(Special.)—Elijah Smith, once hailed as the conqueror of Henry Villard, and for many years one of the conspicuous figures in the world of finance, is, according to a report current today, an inmate of a sanitarium in Boston, where he was placed by his brother, Prosper W. Smith when his health became so shattered as to make it necessary for him to receive care and attention which he was unable to secure in the old Stevens house in Bowling Green, where he lived for many years.

In the early eighties Mr. Smith stepped into the breach left when the smash of the $20,000,000 pool operated by Mr. Villard in Oregon and Transcontinental came. He took hold of the wrecked property. Many of the stockholders lived in Boston where Smith had lived and knew and trusted him. He was appointed receiver of the property and found it $8,000,000 in debt. He revived the affairs of the company until its stock rose from an almost valueless condition to be worth 30 on the floor of the stock exchange.

Henry Villard had gone to Europe and Brayton Ives undertook to fight for the control with Smith, but he was beaten off. Villard, although defeated, was not dead, and many years afterward, when Smith had built up a following which was enormous, he came back, resumed his position in Wall street and gradually absorbed railroads until, with James J. Hill, Ames of the Union Pacific and other financial powers behind him, he again began a war with Mr. Smith for the control of the Northwestern properties. There was a fight for the control of the Oregon railroad, and Navecamp and Villard won. Although Mr. Smith never acknowledged it, he came out of the fight broken in spirit and in pocket.

COMET STARTLES THE CITIZENS OF CHICAGO

The Phenomenon Was Plainly Visible for Over Two Hours—Apparently at a Great Distance.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—A comet was visible here in the southern sky this evening. Its position, as viewed from the Auditorium tower, in which the United States weather bureau is situated, was about 10 degrees southeast from the zenith.

It was difficult to judge of its length, for the reason that it was pointed directly upward and was apparently going from the earth, but Prof. Cox, in charge of the bureau, said that, in his judgment, it was about two degrees long.

"I am not an astronomer," said Prof. Cox, "but I feel very positive that it was a comet. It was plainly visible at 5:30 o'clock, and we could see it at 7 o'clock when it became invisible on account of the increasing haze. All the men in the office here saw it. It could not have been a meteor, for it remained practically in the same position during the entire time it was visible, and no meteor would have done that. Its apparent immovability shows, too, that it was at a great distance from the earth. There was a head which was plainly visible to the naked eye and still more apparent when viewed through a glass. There was also a well defined tail."

The comet was seen by many people on the streets as well as by the officials at the weather bureau.

German Boiler Plate Reduced.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The Vossische Zeitung announces that the German plate syndicate has reduced its price on boiler plate from 180 to 160 marks, and on other plates from 160 to 140 marks.

All Good

All doctors are good, but only the best can cure the hardest cases. Just so with cough medicines. All are good, but only the best can cure the hardest coughs. Buy the kind the doctors prescribe,—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"For three winters I had a very bad cough. I thea tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. In a short time I ceased coughing, and soon was entirely cured."

FOURTEEN PAGES.

The City Millage.

Discussion of the millage has already been precipitated by reports that the opinion obtains in circles now influential in municipal affairs that the present revenues are insufficient for the proper conduct of the city's business. The tax levy of the present year is 15 mills on the dollar. The levy for last year was 17 mills. The persons now in control of the municipal machinery were in control when the assessment was made 17 mills, and they were yet in control when the 15-mill assessment was established. But the new charter, with all its possible political consequences, was then before them on its passage at Harrisburg, and in an effort to forestall the expected new regime and placate public sentiment the taxpayers' burden was reduced, though an increase had been contemplated in advance of knowledge of the so-called "ripper" legislation. Things being different again in city affairs, the way is being paved for a restoration of the millage to last year's figure. What can be done in the way of economy has been shown. What may be done in the way of extravagance our people are familiar with. The Gazette favors continued improvement and is willing to pay its share in footing all bills for value received. But the men who found they were able to reduce the public burden in a time of political stress should consider carefully before they again proceed to add to the load of taxation.

The Governor and the Soldier.

It is interesting to note that the Delinquent Tax Collector Ostermaier denies that he has either personally or by messenger asked Samuel Hager, the old soldier, to resign his position in the delinquent tax office. It is even more interesting, however, to note that Mr. Ostermaier says he will "probably make a change," the "probability" extending to the identification of Mr. Hager's successor as William Bradley. This disagreement between Mr. Ostermaier's declared intention and the notice Mr. Hager says was served on him is, to say the least, remarkable. It may be a mere coincidence. But whether it is a coincidence or something else it stands out like the steeple of a meeting house that the old soldier who served 25 years in the delinquent tax office is to go—unless orders to the contrary come from Harrisburg. It will be recalled that the governor offered it as an objection against Maj. Brown that he removed old soldiers for political reasons against the governor's protest. If Mr. Hager is to be removed by Mr. Ostermaier will it be for other than political reasons? Or will it be because the governor has not protested? And if the governor has not protested why hasn't he done so? Perhaps all old soldiers don't look alike to him.

Chinese Exclusion.

The sympathy for and interest in Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese envoy, to which we all confess, will not cloud the issue in the consideration by congress and the nation of extension of the Chinese exclusion act. We would all be glad to do something nice for the versatile representative of the Chinese empire. He may have the freedom of the country for himself by special act of congress or in any other way he may suggest, but we cannot let down the bars that keep his countrymen out. "Justice and right," as he truly says, "have neither color nor race." But our duty is to ourselves. We must be just to our own people and do right by them before we consider his people. We are here in plenty and prosperity, with a civilization that has produced this condition. We have earned it for ourselves and not for others. We have the right to give or to withhold. This is just. The Chinese have earned no right to unrestricted entry and settlement. We cannot assimilate them and do not want to. To grant the equality asked by Wu would be to introduce confusion. It would work out the equality of a lower level and an inferior condition. Chinese standards—mental, moral and social—are below ours. We have worked out our own salvation; the salvation of the Chinese is to be worked out in Asia, not here. "Justice and right have neither color nor race," but they have well-defined spheres of action. The Chinese exclusion law has been of benefit to our own country and has done China no harm. We are content. The Chinese will have to be. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts says:

> I favor the Chinese exclusion act and intend to introduce a bill for its extension.

The bill will pass congress and be signed by the president. There will be no difference of opinion about it. It is an American measure for protection of America and Americans.

Republican Unanimity.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, which has been singularly silent concerning the bartering of the second city of the state, expresses the opinion that "the time has come to stop quarreling and combine against the enemies of sound money and protection." It is not quite clear from the context of its editorial whether the Inquirer had in mind the insurgent movement or the betrayal of a great trust in making its declaration. If the insurgent movement, there is little to say; if the other, let it be declared there is no time like the present to do right, and that there is no quarrel on that point. All are agreed. The governor by his act has not caused a quarrel in the Republican party. There is little or no difference of opinion concerning it. Even his official family has disapproved his course. Attorney General Elkin declares the governor did wrong. Insurance Commissioner Durham's voice has been keyed to the same note in warning. No one has heard from the secretary of the commonwealth in favor of it. T. Lawrence Eyre, superintendent of buildings and grounds, and Gen. Frank Reeder, commissioner of banking, both (like the attorney general, the insurance commissioner and the secretary of the commonwealth) appointees of the governor, stand hushed, unable to approve if unwilling to condemn. Senator Quay is emphatic in disapproval and repudiation of the act. The only indorsements of the governor come from the beneficiaries of his treachery, who are confined to this county. Therefore, there is no quarrel in the Republican party; party sentiment concerning Gov. Stone's act is practically unanimous, and is against it and him. Even such indorsements as he receives from those who are bound to indorse him are mere lip service. In their secret hearts those to whom he has delivered the government of Pittsburgh despise him for what he has done. The repudiation of the governor is practically complete. All that remains is to give it formal force and effect in the state convention of the Republican party. The hope of the governor is that the people may forget, and in their forgetfulness is his only political safety. It is, therefore, a duty to keep alive the memory of his betrayal until the party's seal of repudiation is stamped upon it in terms unmistakable. There will be plenty of time between the meeting of the state convention and the election in November to attend to the "enemies of sound money and protection." The first duty is to enforce the unanimous verdict against the governor.

Political Activity in Cuba.

The Cuban presidential campaign is warming up. Mass meetings are being held, and the people of the island are taking to their newly-acquired political privileges in a natural way, at once suggestive of their gladness to be free and of their imitation of American methods.

The election will take place on December 31. On that date the qualified voters of Cuba will choose presidential and senatorial electors, members of the house of representatives, governors of provinces and members of provincial councils. With an entirely new government to set up and many offices to fill, the last day of the year will be a busy one for the voters of Cuba. In order that they may give their whole time to their political duties, election day has been declared a legal holiday.

The presidential electors chosen on December 31 will convene in their several provinces, in the same way that American electors meet in the capitals of the several states, and choose the president and vice president. All male Cubans over 21 years of age, except such as are disqualified for crime, and those confined in charitable institutions, are eligible to vote. The presidency is open to native or naturalized Cubans, 40 years of age, but naturalized Cubans, in order to be eligible, must "have served Cuba under arms in her wars for independence during at least 10 years."

It may be added that the adoption of the constitution and these preparations for self-government show that the United States is distinctly keeping faith with the Cubans and is adhering strictly to the declaration of intent made at the time that Spain was notified to yield sovereignty over the island.

An Ontario Ripper.

The capital of the Dominion of Canada had a mayor who is now a private citizen and ineligible for re-election for two years. Ottawa is a city of the province of Ontario as well as capital of the dominion, and is subject to the provincial laws, among which are certain stringent regulations of the sale of liquor. The mayor took a drink. He bought and paid for it, and there's the trouble, for he did it in prohibited hours. In such periods of time as the purveyor of drinks may not lawfully pursue his calling in Ontario the citizen may not buy; and the official who violates the law he is sworn to enforce must suffer consequences. A mayor is chargeable with enforcement of the liquor laws within the jurisdiction of his mayoralty, and should he violate the laws himself his office is forfeited and for two years he loses the right to re-election. He is "ripped" without opportunity for vindication. That is, of course, provided his official delinquency is detected. Detection happened in the case of the mayor of Ottawa. Some political enemy "got next" and the city has a new chief executive. They do some things in Canada that astonish us and furnish food for thought. This is one of them.

Smallpox and Lockjaw.

There has been something like a revival of panic in Camden, N. J., and adjacent points because a few more cases of lockjaw have appeared among persons who had been vaccinated. But while there is local ground for fear, there is no need for general apprehension that tetanus is to be the usual accompaniment of vaccination. Millions of people have been vaccinated against smallpox since Dr. Jenner made his famous discovery, and until now there has been no development of tetanus among the multitudes saved from a loathsome scourge by the beneficial operations of the vaccine virus. The exception of the present epidemic of lockjaw proves the rule and points inevitably to some cause not necessarily associated with the preventive remedy. Evidently there is something wrong in Camden. Either there is an unsuspected center of infection or something has gone amiss in the preparation of the quills. The fault is not with the principle of vaccination, but with the local practice or with the people.

The Case of Col. Lynch.

Not so much has been heard recently concerning the intentions of Col. Arthur Lynch, who was elected to parliament from Galway because of the reputation that he fought in the Boer army against the British flag. Col. Lynch, it has been hinted, is in danger of being tried for treason should he land in England from his haven of refuge in France, and inasmuch as his political triumph is due to the declarations of his prowess in arms against Britain it looks like a clear case. But the colonel may not be in peril as a traitor, after all. It may have been noticed that while his noisy friends have subsided, little, if anything, has been said about him by English officials. It may be that they intend to ignore him, which would be rough on Lynch. It would be bad enough to be tried and convicted as a traitor, but it would be infinitely worse to be let alone. There would be no small measure of the martyr's glory in the one fate, but the other would be simply intolerable to a proud and sensitive soul. The British government will be wise if it deals gently with Col. Lynch; but the British government is not always wise.

Though A. R. Peacock in his reported intention to devote a portion of his wealth to the comfort and well being of former schoolmates may differ, as he says, with Andrew Carnegie, his benefactions will, nevertheless, like those of the lord rector of St. Andrew's, give an appreciable boom to the cause of popular education.

It may easily be imagined that the Potomac river ducks have a deep-seated antipathy to both Democratic and Republican administrations in Washington.

If that newest Vanderbilt heir could see some of the pictures of himself in the New York newspapers he would doubtless be sorry it all happened.

Freezing weather in the west suggests that for the sake of speed some of those western presidential booms might take to skates.

Philadelphia managed to catch Admiral Schley in a hand-shaking loop, from which it took the police to extricate him.

New York's election is now nearly a month old, and Mark Twain is yet to contribute his little joke on the result.

Mr. Addicks of Delaware positively refuses to act like a man over whom the road roller has been driven.

Yesterday's extermination of turkey was wholly without political significance or international import.

Mr. Depew will, of course, not be expected to make a speech on Christmas day.

Congress is the next exciting thing to happen.

Father Knickerbocker Enjoys His Thanksgiving.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Nov. 28, 1901.

New York has enjoyed its Thanksgiving. In the first place the weather was ideal, so far as a perfectly clear sky, floods of sunlight and brisk air could make it so. There was no snow, but no one seemed to regret that. The "old-fashioned Thanksgiving" is all well enough in poetry or in an editorial in a country paper, but in New York there is a preference for sunlight, clean streets and dry atmosphere. Church was well attended this morning. Special services were held in all places of worship, as usual, and it was noticeable that there were more people at church than have taken part in Thanksgiving services for many years. This may have been on account of an increase of piety, but the possibility is that it was due to the fine weather. The theaters were filled to overflowing, both at the matinee and night performances. The custom of taking dinner about 6 in the evening, which has become stronger in every American city from year to year, is general here, almost without exception, so that it was possible for many persons to visit one theater in the afternoon and another in the evening, with Thanksgiving dinner between. Then there was the football match at the Polo grounds and athletic entertainments of many kinds in different club houses. It was a day of holiday making, and each individual took his recreation according to his own taste. There was little disorder, even in the toughest districts. Thanksgiving is not a time for knock-down-and-drag-outs, although such happenings are always possible at a season when the populace has nothing to do but to enjoy itself. There are a great many dances tonight, and a fracas here and there is to be expected, but so far the police have had little to do, aside from taking care of the incapables who have celebrated spirituously and vinously with more liberality than discretion.

Town and Country Exchange Guests.

Year by year it is becoming more the custom for New Yorkers to take dinner in the country when they have friends living in suburban places. Today this tendency was peculiarly marked. The railroads all did an enormous business, and trains running between New York and towns and villages within 20 or 30 miles were literally packed with passengers. On the other hand, the small communities up the state, over on Long Island and in the nearby settlements in New Jersey, contributed their share toward the multitude in New York city that ate its dinner here. Thousands of people living outside the metropolis make it a point to come to New York on every holiday, and when the weather is very fine, as today, the number of rural visitors can be multiplied by two.

Sabbath Quietude in Busy Marts.

A singular quietude from the cessation of familiar industrial sounds overhung New York today. No work was in progress in the rapid transit tunnel nor on the extensive building operations in many parts of the city, notably at Herald square. The tunnel work is usually stopped on Sundays, and the first day of the week always seems strangely silent on that account; but it was quieter even than on a Sunday today, because the hundreds of men engaged in blasting out foundations and preparing the great spaces in Broadway at Herald square for new edifices generally work on Sunday, at least part of the time. All night long they are toiling in the light of arc and incandescent lamps, augmented by flaring gas torches. They do not stop on Sunday for more than a few hours, because one may see them late on Saturday and early on Monday, giving the impression that they never cease. But today it was different. There was no working till midnight, and the laborers will not begin early tomorrow. So it has been unwontedly still in Herald square, and, as the cafes are now all farther uptown, even the sounds of revelry came down in subdued cadences.

Harmless Salt Meadow Fires.

Forest and meadow fires are numerous in Jersey and New Yorkers have had many a scare in the last few days over the clouds of black smoke that come rolling over the North river from different points. It is the regular thing in Jersey to have a burning up of salt-meadow grass and brushwood in this month. The seasoned Jerseyman does not trouble himself about it, because he is used to it, and besides, he has long since made up his mind that anything may happen in his state. The New Yorker is a nervous, highly-strung individual and he gets excited. Occasionally one of these brush fires gets out of bounds, and then there is a burning up of valuable property. Such an instance occurred about a week ago, when a large warehouse in Jersey City was destroyed with a loss of some $25,000. As a rule, however, the forest and meadow fires are harmless, and as they destroy the haunts of millions of mosquitoes, it must be conceded that they do much good.

Trying Out Steeds on the Speedway.

Contrary to expectation, there were few important trotters on the Speedway today. Thanksgiving is a favorite time for trying out some of the thoroughbreds, and several matches had been arranged this year. Among them was one between Nathan Straus' "Cobwebs," which has been "King of the Speedway" for some weeks, and Fred Gerken's famous trotter, "The Monk," but when the owners looked over the track and had studied weather probabilities, they decided that the road would be too hard for the precious feet of their favorites and they called off the match by mutual consent. There were plenty of fast animals on the Speedway to make the holiday pleasant for participants and spectators, however. The road was hard, but the fine weather was not to be resisted, no matter if it did jar the hoofs of a horse or two. What is the Speedway for if it is not to be used on Thanksgiving day?

More and Larger Electric Stages.

The six new electric stages that have been placed on the Fifth avenue line are so popular that the company will put on two more on the 1st of January. These new ones will be larger than the six already in use. They will seat 34 persons each, while the others accommodate only 26.

Trinity Chimes Ring Out.

Trinity chimes were set free early today. The playing of hymns on the bells by the regular bellringer, Albert Melahn, was the first public intimation that Thanksgiving had dawned, and many a window was thrown open, cool as it was, that the occupants of the rooms might hear the air of some familiar hymn clanging forth in sturdy harmony. Trinity does not often give this pleasure to the surrounding world, but it never allows Thanksgiving or Christmas day to pass without reviving its glorious old custom.

Returned Voyagers' Thanksgiving.

Among those in New York who are particularly thankful are several hundred persons who arrived here this morning on the White Star liner Majestic. The ship should have come in yesterday, but the weather was so bad that the vessel could not get in until today. It was 10:30 when she got into her berth in the North river. Her officers and passengers report that the trip across the Atlantic was exceptionally rough and that it was due only to the splendid seamanship of the ship's officers that they made as good time as they did. "It is a good day to get home, anyhow," remarked one business man, who had been afraid that he would have to eat his Thanksgiving turkey aboard ship, and his sentiment seemed to be that of all who heard him give it utterance.

Greater Than Paderewski.

Among the disdinguished passengers on board the Majestic were Senator W. A. Clark of Montana and Jan Kubelik, the Bohemian violinist, who has been brought to this country under the management of Daniel Frohman for his first American tour. He will give his first concert on Monday next at Carnegie hall. Mr. Frohman is said to have guaranteed to give Kubelik not less than $100,000 for his earnings while in America. In London musical people declared that Kubelik was a greater musician than Paderewski.

The Next Commissioner of Police.

It is accepted as pretty near a certainty that the next commissioner of police for New York will be Col. John N. Partridge, who is at present the superintendent of public works. Col. Partridge seems to believe it himself, for he has been intimating what he will do if he takes charge of the police force. The intention of the colonel evidently is to make the men understand that the laws must be treated with respect, and that he will punish policemen for violations. At the same time he is careful to remark that he has not been appointed police commissioner and that he cannot lay out a definite plan of action in an office that he may never fill. Inasmuch as there has been correspondence between the colonel and Gov. Odell, and some hints given by Mayor-elect Low, it looks as if Col. Partridge is not premature in talking about possibilities in connection with this, one of the most important appointments in the gift of the mayor.

Suicide Hall Doomed.

The sad news comes from the best authority that McGurk's "Suicide hall," in the Bowery, is to go out of business. John McGurk, proprietor, says so. He has to close his dive at midnight since Capt. Churchill has been in command of the precinct, and he is losing money every day, he says. Considering what a murderous record the place has, this causes more grief to McGurk than to anyone else. There are other Bowery saloons where crooks and thugs congregate that could be spared in the interests of law and order, and New York is wishing Capt. Churchill "more power to your elbow."

Turkey Snaps Losing Their Hold.

While a great many theatrical companies have been made up to go to small towns for performances on Thanksgiving day, it appears that the "turkey snaps" are not so profitable as in former years. A "turkey snap" is a Thanksgiving show which is organized for that one day and disbands immediately afterward. The statement of one of the dramatic agents along the Rialto this morning was that people in small towns see so many good entertainments that they regard with disdain a hastily contrived performance of some old play by a scratch company of actors. Then, again, he argued that people like to stay at their own firesides instead of going to a theater on a holiday. This is to be doubted, however, for the theaters in New York are always packed to overflowing at Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Years and even Memorial day. It is a fact that there are practically no actors idle in New York today except those high-priced people who will not play outside of New York city and who will pretend, with an edifying assumption of sincerity, that they do not even know what a "turkey actor" may be.

Poking Fun at Capt. Chapman.

Police Captain Chapman, whose whiskers are pervading a downtown district again after his long sojourn up among the goats, is the subject of many sly digs by his many friends. He is a popular man, in spite of his official severity. It is asserted that he has lost the trick and manner of Broadway speech and that his favorite expletive is, "Wal, I swan to hen!" When it is remembered that Chapman is a New Yorker of the New Yorkers the comic absurdity of this declaration is apparent on its face.

Woman's Rib Broken in Crowded Car.

A woman was crushed in a Brooklyn bridge train this morning so that actually two of her ribs were broken. The guard squeezed more people into the car than it would hold under ordinary circumstances, and as this unfortunate woman's side happened to be against the handle of the gate in went her ribs. She screamed and fainted, but there was no way of relieving her, and she had to cross the bridge in an unconscious state until the train reached the Manhattan end. Then her husband, who is a policeman, arrested the guard and took him back to Brooklyn. He was arraigned before a magistrate, who refused to hold the prisoner, saying that there was no evidence of wrong-doing on his part. The policeman says he will "go higher." The incident gives a slight idea of the amenities of travel in Greater New York.

EUROPEAN GOSSIP.

Prince Leopold of Belgium to Be Decorated With the Order of Saint Hubert—In Memory of an Ancient Saint.

BY THE DUCHESSE DE BELIMERE.

The fact that the birthday of Prince Leopold of Belgium falls on November 3 marks a curious coincidence. It is the fete day of Saint Hubert, the patron saint of Bavaria. As the principal distinction of Bavaria is the Order of Saint Hubert—an order given only to princes—it will be the first decoration worn by the young prince, and will be conferred upon him in the near future. At the baptismal ceremony, which will take place toward the end of November, the prince will receive the following names: Leopold, after the king, his godfather; Philip Charles, in honor of his two grandfathers; Albert, his father's name, Marie, the name of the Virgin, given traditionally to princes and princesses of the Belgian house; Hubertus, for his saint; Miguel, in honor of the maternal grandmother, Duchess Carl-Theodore, of the house of Braganza, where the name Miguel is traditional; and Meinard, a name borne by Catholic princes of the Hohenzollern line. The last name suggests a story known to few. It is the name of a hermit who belonged in medieval ages to the oldest branch of the Hohenzollerns. Shunning the world and human splendors Meinrad retired to an Alpine forest where he built a small chapel. Soon the fame of his virtues and supernatural powers attracted crowds of pilgrims. Poor and rich alike came to consult him. Two highwaymen, seeing illustrious visitors enter the cave, supposed that the hermit must be very rich, and resolved to murder him. Under the pretense of hunger they paid him a visit. Meinrad served them a meal, but while doing so guessed their purpose, and requested them to place two candles beside his body. In spite of this the murderers did the deed. The chapel in vain for gold and silver, they took flight without daring to light the tapers according to the old man's wish. Looking back for a moment they were astonished to see the candles shining brightly. The assassins were afterward discovered by the hermit's tamed crows. Today Meinrad's chapel has become the most important pilgrimage of Switzerland.

Princess Ouroussoff, wife of the Russian ambassador in Paris, has long been esteemed an out-and-out Parisian. As the daughter of Mr. Abaza, formerly Russian minister of finance and intimate friend of Czar Alexander II., her highness met all European notabilities and charmed everyone with her graceful manners and bright witticisms. On her visits to Paris her original beauty, striking gowns and musical talent created quite a sensation, more it seems than her severe mother wished, and almost ended in her marriage with a French count, who has since consoled himself with an English heiress. It was about this time that the princess made the acquaintance of the Marquise de Blocqueville. The old marquise took a great fancy to this charming Russian and eagerly welcomed her to the famous Quai Malaquais salon. After the princess' marriage she was seen even more in the French capital. Art, literature and musical talent formed the open sesame to her salons of the Boulevard Malesherbes side by side with the pool of the "Les Trophees" was to be met M. Henri de Regnier, the princess' future son-in-law. Both recited their verses. Massenet was to be heard playing unpublished compositions; Sybil Sanderson singing one or other of her roles and Paul Deschanel with literary lights engaged in a display of oratorical fireworks. These interesting reunions wer abandoned when the prince was appointed minister to Brussels. The princess' delicate health and her husband's new post kept her a captive in Belgium. It was a most welcome change to her ladyship when on Baron de Mohrenheim's recall Prince Ouroussoff was ordered to Paris.

Several days before their departure from San Sebastian the queen regent of Spain and her children paid a visit to the historic convent of Santa Teresa. The convent, which was founded by Felipe IV., on the occasion of his daughter's marriage with the Sun King, boasts the most firmly closed doors of any Spanish institution. Since Queen Christina and her daughter visited it in 1845 a stranger has never been known to cross its threshold. Alfonso XIII. has always had the keenest desire to see the inside of this mysterious building at the foot of San Sebastian fortress, and it was to satisfy his curiosity that the visit was made. Nuns in long white robes, bearing lighted tapers, met the guests at the door and conducted them in silence to the chapter room, where a high white throne, decorated with gold, had been specially prepared. On this the queen regent took her seat and, while the immense organ pealed forth the Spanish anthem, all the nuns filed by and, bowing low, kissed her majesty's hand. This ceremony ended, wine and cake were served.

PERSONAL.

Judge R. E. Umbel of Uniontown was in the city last night. He came to Pittsburgh on a brief business visit and declined to talk politics. When asked how Governor Stone's action in removing Recorder A. M. Brown had been received in Fayette county, he said: "You had better ask the Republicans of Fayette county about that. I have heard many of them express their opinions, and they would hardly do to go into print. If you would send a reporter to Uniontown he could get plenty of interviews on the subject, and doubtless worded in very strong language. They are pretty well worked up over the affair. Fayette county politics are in the background and Pittsburgh seems to be the center of excitement." Mr. Umbel said that business is the main topic in Fayette county's seat of government. "The deals in coal lands are absorbing nearly all of the interest. The deals that are now made are almost all second-hand, the coal having passed from the hands of the farmers into the hands of speculators. One business man of Uniontown sold a lot of coal land a short time ago at a price which netted him about $1,000 an acre. Another tract he sold at an advance of $900 an acre, clearing, it is said, about $900,000 on the one deal."

C. F. Schaller of New York city, well known as a merchant tailor, passed through Pittsburgh for Chicago, last night. "One of the most prominent men in New York politics just now," he said, "is Capt. T. Norton Goddard, a business man. He was a college chum of President Roosevelt and was one of the first men to be invited to dine with the president after his inauguration. He has been prominently mentioned as police commissioner of the city, and, it is said, has been offered that position under the new administration, but has declined on account of business. His present prominence is immediately due to the splendid fight he put up against Tammany in the recent election."

W. H. Ruppel, a prominent attorney of Somerset, Pa., who made a game fight as Democratic candidate for judge in Somerset county at the late election, had a few interesting things to say about Governor Stone and his dealings with Pittsburgh. "Governor Stone's action will exert a great influence on the state ticket," said Mr. Ruppel. "The manner in which that action was brought about ought to revolutionize Pennsylvania politics. The people are beginning to find out that the allegations about corruption in state politics have something in them, after all. I believe that the people will take action in regard to the condition of affairs."

The registration at the hotels yesterday beat all records for Thanksgiving day. Every hostelry was crowded. At the Seventh avenue dinner was served to 400 guests. All the other hotels entertained correspondingly large numbers. The Homestead-Washington and Jefferson game was responsible for the rush.

Capt. John F. Blake of Canton, O., three times mayor of that city, went through Pittsburgh last evening to Washington, where he is employed in the census bureau. He was accompanied by Capt. Philip Yost of the Eighth Ohio, McKinley's "Own Regiment."

J. W. Semans, Mrs. Semans and Miss Mary Semans of Uniontown, Pa.; Miss Mary Richard of Brownsville, Pa., and Masters Harold and Edgar Semans of Washington, Pa., formed a party at the Lincoln yesterday.

G. S. Fleming and E. Heinemann of this city went to New York last night to look over the horse market. If they find what they want they will buy some racing stock.

Mr. and Mrs. Rockwell Marietta, Miss Marietta, Roger Marietta and A. D. Solsson of Connellsville stopped at the Seventh Avenue yesterday.

A New Beer Story.

From the Atchison Globe.

Here is a new beer story: A Prohibitionist from Topeka accepted a position in Montana. His health being poor, he applied to a doctor, who recommended that he drink beer as a tonic. The Prohibitionist thought he would be excused for drinking beer on the advice of a physician and said all right. A month or two later the doctor met him and asked him how he was getting along, if he drank the beer as directed.

"Yes," the Prohibitionist replied, "but I don't seem to be any better."

"How much did you drink?"

"Oh, I have drunk it faithfully—a teaspoonful before every meal."

WHEN CIDER TASTES THE BEST.

When autumn paints her ruddy glow across each hill and dale,
And Jack Frost plays at hide-and-seek through orchard, wood and vale,
Then comes the cider-making time—the old horse walking round,
The apples crunching in the cogs, a mellow, soothing sound;
The press with rye straw mingled with a cadence yet untold;
And then the foaming tub of juice, with boys and bees about.
And, too, the straw with which we draw the mellow liquid out.

Oh, that is when it tastes the best, a straw poked in the foam,
And we upon our bended knees to draw the cider home!
A golden goblet if you will, or cut glass and the rest,
But when we draw it through a straw is when it tastes the best.

Then, later, when the cogs are stilled and all the cider's made,
With 20 barrels in a row behind the old mill's shade,
With 20 bungholes waiting there to make a youngster smile,
I'd give a heap to take a straw and linger there a while.
I'd like to straddle every cask and sample every one;
And nozzle in that apple juice until the day was done;
And then I'd like to go to bed and dream that I were still
A-straddle of a cider cask down under Martin's mill.

For that is when it tastes the best, a straw poked in the foam,
Humped over on a cider cask to draw that sweetness home!
A golden goblet if you will, or cut glass and the rest,
But when we draw it through a straw is when it tastes the best.

Southward the weary hobo takes his way, and winter, now, 'tis feared has come to stay.—Oil City Blizzard.

The Republicans of this county had experience enough in this month of November to teach them the value of getting together.—DuBois Courier.

What the Pennsylvania National Guard authorities should strive to do is to secure a proper division camping ground, centrally located, where division encampments could be held once a year.—Waynesburg Messenger.

A curfew law would be a good thing for many of the boys and girls of this city, and likewise for the parents. People laugh at the idea of a curfew law, and yet over 1,000 cities and towns in this country have such an enactment.—McKeesport Herald.

It is strange but true that on Thanksgiving day, the day set apart for worship and praise, not a few churches in Harrisburg find it necessary to unite for punishment in order to have present a half hundred worshipers. This is an indication of what?—Harrisburg Patriot.

Scottdale has outdone herself again. She has, in fact, once more placed herself on record as being the busiest, most enterprising and best town in Westmoreland county. The latest evidence of her down-to-the-minute progressiveness, was the formation of a company capitalized at $125,000 to rebuild on an immense scale the Kenny machine shop at this place.—Scottdale News.

The outlook for electric railway connection between this community and the lower valley is now brighter than ever before. It looks as if the coming few months would bring it. Councils of the boroughs should meet the questions that will come before them with due regard for the welfare and the rights of the citizens, but at the same time keeping in mind what such a connection promises to do for the growth and development of the community.—Elizabeth Herald.

Two of our successful nimrods, S. S. Dice, the barber, and Robert Martin, the gents' furnisher, were out on the mountain hunting Monday of this week. The day was dark and gloomy and they could see but a short distance in the woods. They left their horse and buggy at the Mountain school house and started in to hunt between that and the Furnace run creek. After hunting for considerable time they became bewildered and everything got turned wrong, to them. It is said they traveled around several times in a circle, but finally found themselves on the hill near the old Brant woolen factory. They then pulled themselves together and went for their horse and buggy, some three miles off, and drove back to Ligonier. Their friends are glad to see them back home safe from harm.—Ligonier Echo.

The Attorney General.

The indignation of Attorney General Elkin over the action of Gov. Stone in the Pittsburgh matter appears to have been for publication only, and not as an evidence of good faith.—Philadelphia Press.

Attorney General Elkin evidently takes no stock in the theory that Senator Quay is a back number. He says: "Quay could get up at midnight, in his pajamas, and whip the ground with all of us. As long as Quay lives he will be the master." Let's hope, then, that Quay will live long and occasionally get up at midnight.—Scranton Tribune.

FEATS OF THE NIMRODS.

William Wise and John Marsh spent the better part of the past week hunting in this section. They bagged 41 pieces and Jim Logan is willing, he says, to swear that more than half that number were barn pheasants.—Mount Pleasant Journal.

Michael Strum went hunting the other day and, mistaking his dog for a big brown bear, discharged both barrels of his gun at him. The dog ran home and now refuses to accompany him hunting, evidently afraid that Mike's aim may not be so bad next time.—Butler Citizen.

Four of our famous hunters went hunting on Baker's run. They took a lot of things along, some of which were seven loaves of bread, 24 pounds meat, five pounds of lard, three layer cakes, four pounds butter and three dozen light cakes. On returning home they unpacked their game, which consisted of one lonely rabbit. Go again, boys.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Bert Stoyer of Porkey killed two bears in the woods near that place a day or two ago, the first of the season thus far reported. This species of game is said to be quite plentiful this year, and as the protecting arms of the game law do not extend to poor brute we may look for many of him to be taken during the winter season. They say it's great sport—for the man behind the gun.—Tionesta Republican.

J. S. Stier, who is at "Camp J. Barley Corn" in Fulton county, with John Schenk and other local hunters, has broken all the local records for the season by shooting two deer at one shot. The trick was done with a heavy charge of buckshot and the animals fell together. This brings Mr. Stier up to the limit, the law allowing one man to kill only two deer in one season. The question arises, what would have been the legal status of the case had Mr. Stein previously shot a deer.—Altoona Gazette.

Otto Phillips of Lindsey was out hunting one day this week and succeeded in capturing three nice fat 'coons and two 'possums. The 'coons were dug out of a hole about six feet deep running about 20 feet. When Otto reached the coons, which were cuddled close together, he grabbed them by the tails in one, two three order, and threw them out for the dogs to argue the matter with. Two of them were safely landed, but the third one got mixed up in some unaccountable way with the hunter's legs and bit a small chunk out. Of course, a fellow wouldn't mind a little thing like that when he was hunting 'coons; that's part of the sport. Mr. Phillips presented the Elks lodge with the opposums and two 'coons.—Punxsutawney Republican.

The banner buck of the season was brought to the city on Wednesday afternoon by Henry Reess, Robert Nabb, Hank Gibbs, of this city, and Oscar Lamey of Oakland township. He had a handsome set of antlers, known as five prongs, and weighed 203 pounds. The hunters left here on Thursday of last week, and between that and Saturday killed four deer.

HUNTSMEN RIDE IN MERRY CHASE

Over Snow-Covered Hills Pittsburgh Hunt Club Followed Hounds.

WOMAN WAS SECOND IN RACE

Slippery Ground Caused Fear of Accidents, but None Occurred. Miss Mary Flinn Was a Leader Among Riders—Hunt a Success.

The blast of the huntsman's horn, the baying of the fox hounds and a dash of the blooded hunters through the orchard of the Pittsburgh Hunt club at Homewood yesterday morning announced that the annual Thanksgiving day hunt had commenced. The scarlet coats of the gentlemen riders and the neat-fitting black riding habits of the ladies presented a pretty sight as they scampered over the snow-covered ground six miles after the baying hounds, across the country over fences and ditches.

The hunters made the distance in less than an hour. There were no accidents.

H. N. Van Voorhees was the first rider to finish after the master of the hounds, F. M. Lowry. Miss Mary Flinn was second and W. L. Elkins finished third in the chase.

There was great interest manifested in the riding of Miss Mary Flinn, the daughter of Senator William Flinn. This nervy little rider was mounted on her new horse "Big Red." This animal was reliant mount followed closely. Back of her were several tired-looking horses and riders. Following them the balance of the hunters came straggling in.

The scarlet coats of the riders were spotted with mud and snow that had been thrown from the heels of the horses during the chase.

The Hunting Luncheon.

Grooms were awaiting the arrival of the hunters with heavy blankets on their arms. After the riders dismounted the horses were blanketed and led to their straw-covered box stalls.

The dog trainers took the tired hounds and after looking over their feet, removing all thorns, they were sent into their kennels again.

The riders sauntered to the club house. Luncheon was served and the chase was discussed. The Thanksgiving hunt of 1901 was pronounced the most successful ever given by the Pittsburgh Hunt club.

The members present in the gallery are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Brown, George Laughlin, J. McK. Speer, Thomas O'Conner Jones, Mrs. Frank M. Lowry, Mrs. David Aiken, Jr., Mrs. D. M. Edwards, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dravo, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Logan, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mellon, John Bindley, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Nicola, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brainard, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McCallam, William Schenk, J. M. Jenkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moore, Senator William Flinn and family, Senator John E. Weller, Horace Moorhead, Charles E. Speer, Dawson Speer, Col. G. W. Elkins, Mrs. G. W. Elkins, Harry Miller and Mr. and Mrs. S. M. McElroy.

In the hunt were, besides those mentioned, S. F. Dooner, D. H. Collins, H. L. Collins, D. W. Baird, G. W. Eberhart and Dr. G. W. Beane.

HOUSEKEEPER'S NOTEBOOK.

To stuff tomatoes the stuffing should be chopped very fine and mixed with some of the tomato juice, or with a little chili sauce. Chopped beef with onions or bread crumbs, seasoned as if for fowl, make a delicate stuffing, and when baked slowly in a moderate oven the dish is a most palatable one.

The proper toast is browned evenly and delicately on both sides, the crust trimmed off and the pieces set sideways in a toast rack. If buttered they must be sent to the table immediately, else they will be soggy.

To keep salt dry a closed receptacle should be provided, which may be hung over the stove or even set on top of it, at the back, where it is always warm without being hot. This keeps out the moisture and obviates the unpleasant duty of stirring up the salt at the table.

Whole wheat bread may be made into delicious cream toast by toasting in the regular way and putting for 15 minutes in a covered dish with plenty of hot milk and cream to cover. A sprinkle of sugar and seasoning with pepper and salt gives a delicate flavor, very much appreciated by children and invalids. The wheaten taste seems to lend itself especially to a combination with milk and cream.

For beef sliced and eaten cold, chop an onion very fine and season with salt, pepper, oil and vinegar, after the manner of a salad, using twice the quantity of oil as vinegar. Sprinkle this over the meat, either before it is served or individually. It adds zest to the plainest meal.

Bread crumbs, crackers, cheese and horseradish may all be grated and put away in airtight jars, to save time and temper for the cook, when one of these articles is needed hastily.

In dusty Pittsburgh the floor of a bedroom should never be carpeted. A rug or several rugs, which may be taken up every day and beaten out of doors, is the safest investment, and second to that is matting, of the close, tight variety, which yields up the accumulated dust to the soft broom like a varnished surface.

To clean windows on these freezing days the water should be warm and should have a goodly dose of ammonia. The window should be scrubbed very quickly and wiped dry immediately. A polishing with chamois skin will finish the job, which cannot be delayed without risk of freezing the water on the glass.

To broil steak on the ordinary broiler of the gas range, the broiler should be put on the bracket second below the flame. The first bracket brings the meat too close, while the second puts it too high, if the gas is turned to its full strength. This provides sufficient heat to broil the meat quickly, and it escapes the taste of the gas flame, which is always unpleasant.

A rub of garlic over the plate in which steak is to be served, or a bit of bread laid in the bowl with it, gives the delicate fleeting flavor sought by the French cook. The average American must learn how not to do things, and this use of garlic is one of the most important among the don'ts.

In making hash with a sauce a tablespoonful of flour should be browned lightly in a pan and then rubbed to a paste with a little cold water. This gives thickness and color to the sauce, and is especially savory when used with roast beef hash.

To fry onions crisp and brown the pan should be very hot and should be lightly greased with butter. Too much butter makes the onions limp. Only a few at a time should be fried, and they should be turned with a fork as soon as they brown on one side.

HUNTING PARTY OF PROMINENT MEN.

A 10-days' feast of outdoor fun and indoor comfort has been prepared by J. M. Shields for the pleasure of about 20 distinguished guests who began to gather yesterday at his mountain home near Laughlinstown. Mr. Shields, his wife and two children went to the lodge Wednesday to make ready for the arrival of the guests. The party will include Judge W. D. Porter, Attorney General P. C. Knox, George E. Shaw, E. W. Smith, George Shiras, E. P. Young, W. H. McClung, Judge Evans, J. J. Miller, Recorder George M. Von Bonnhorst, M. K. McMullin and Attorney E. Z. Smith and Thomas Patterson.

The Shields lodge, situated high up in the mountains, is a large log house of the olden style designed for room and comfort. A big open fireplace and a massive stone chimney on the outside of the house give it the appearance of an old-time hostelry and every one of its 20 or more rooms is planned and furnished with a view to giving the occupant "solid comfort." Elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of the guests, and nothing which will conduce to their pleasure has been omitted from the program. The party will whet their appetites every day by a long hunt in the mountains. The meals will be served in generous country style, under the direction of A. F. Guseman, formerly steward of the Americus club.

SOCIETY

THE card party given by Mrs. Park Painter yesterday afternoon for her daughter, Miss Eleanor Painter, and the several Pelham Manor girls among the younger set or that are visiting in Pittsburgh was one of the smartest of the few large entertainments of yesterday. It was an afternoon affair, and the guests included only the girls who filled the handsome residence of Mr. and Mrs. Park Painter in Ridge avenue, Allegheny, with beauty and cheer. It was a very informal entertainment, and both hearts and duplicate whist were played with prizes for both games. In duplicate whist Miss Isabel Pontefract and Miss Gertrude Irwin made the highest scores, north and south, becoming the prize-winners, while Miss Alice Walton and Miss Marian Chambers had the highest scores east and west, and were also prize winners. In the game of hearts five prizes were awarded, the successful players being Miss Dolly Hill, Miss Elizabeth Baggeley, Miss Frances Laidlaw, which may be mispronounced Miss Amy DuPuy and Miss Sallie Dunbar. The Painter residence was simply decorated with a few palms and ferns and clusters of bright-hued flowers harmonizing richly with the furnishings of the drawing-room, the hall and dining-room. The daintiest of appointments prevailed at the card tables, the game of hearts being indicated by various heart-shaped decorations. Among the guests were also some of the younger girls who are still continuing their studies and are not making their debut in society this winter.

An At Home for Charity.

The Children's Aid society will give an at home next Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. William Palmer, Aiken avenue, Shadyside. The officers of the society, Mrs. James R. Darragh, president; Mrs. R. S. McCance and Mrs. J. L. Andrews, vice president; Mrs. S. M. Bryant, secretary, and Mrs. J. J. Mathews, treasurer, together with the hostess, Mrs. William Palmer, will receive, assisted by the other members of the board of managers. Tea will be served and the occasion will be a pleasant social affair, with the double purpose of the enjoyment of the guests and the raising of funds for the work of the society. A number of young women will assist in the dining-room, among them being Miss Cora Livingston, Miss Ethel Darragh, Miss Elizabeth Black, Miss Jean Palmer, Mrs. E. A. Smyser, Miss Kerr, Miss Grace Taylor, Miss Gertrude McCandless, Miss Elizabeth McCague, Miss Effie Stewart and Mrs. William Stevenson.

A Tea and Sale of Laces.

An announcement of interest to many Pittsburgh women that have met Miss Sybel Carter during her previous visits to this city is that of her return this season. Miss Carter will conduct her annual sale of laces made by Indian women to be held next Tuesday afternoon at the Twentieth Century club in Duquesne way. Tea will be served and the exhibition and sale will be marked by many pleasant little social features. For years Miss Carter made annual visits to Pittsburgh, becoming as the guest of Mrs. William H. Daly, who opened her house for the sale, always one of the most successful and enjoyable affairs of the season. Since Mrs. Daly's death Miss Carter has made her old Pittsburgh home the guest of the Alice Carter memorial Protestant Episcopal church. Miss Carter a number of years ago succeeded in teaching the Indian women to make lace, and each fall she comes east with many pieces of exquisite samples of the handsome work of the Indian women.

Belcher—McClure.

The wedding of Miss Bertha M. Ralston, daughter of John C. Ralston, and George McClure was an exceptionally pretty affair of Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's father, 5 Bell avenue, Wilkinsburg, the Rev. Thomas Parry, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church of the place, officiating. The bride was attended by one bridesmaid, Miss Belle McClure, a sister of the bridegroom, while the bride's brother, William Ralston, was the best man. The bride wore a pretty gown of white silk mousseline de soie over white satin and trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds. The bridesmaid wore white louisine over blue satin and her bouquet was composed of white carnations. The bride and bridegroom left soon after the wedding for a trip east. They will return in a couple of weeks and make their home until spring with the bride's father in Ross avenue. Mr. McClure is identified with the wholesale grocery interests in East Pittsburg. A number of out-of-town guests were present at the wedding.

Mrs. Kelly Comes to Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Florence Kelly, general factory inspector for the Consumers' league, whose headquarters are in New York, will speak at the annual meeting of the Western Pennsylvania branch of the Consumers' league on Friday, December 13. This branch is not two years old yet, but holds a prominent place in the work of the league throughout this state. Officers will be elected and important business transacted at the meeting, making it an event of importance aside from the address of Mrs. Kelly.

THE PROPER TEA SET

Quaint shapes in Tea and Coffee Sets are favored now. The fat-bodied English pots are in special favor. The one shown has just been made to order for one of the autumn brides.

PRISCILLA'S PENCIL

Caught the outlines of a pretty little holiday plan in a crowded East End car yesterday afternoon. A group of bright-faced school girls on their way home from school were talking about Christmas gifts, and in the course of a conversation, which included "good warm stockings," "some mittens, too," and "candy by all means," the open-eared pencil learned that these girls, none of whom is over 16, have planned to fill a pair of stockings each for some poor child whose Christmas otherwise would bring forth no childish joy. Warm woolen stockings are to be purchased and each filled to overflowing with the things which children love best, an apple, an orange, candy, nuts and some pennies, and toys to suit the age and sex of the recipient. For the work each is saving a portion of her weekly allowance, and as a dollar is to be expended on each stocking there will be a goodly amount of Christmas joy to stuff in. The plan is so sweet and generous, so wholly like the enthusiasm of girlhood, that it cannot be spread too widely.

A Sachet Glove—

Is a dainty personal souvenir which a coquettish southern girl has prepared for several of her most ardent admirers. The long-wristed delicately tinted gloves which she wears for evenings are cleaned and made as fresh as possible, then they are stuffed realistically with sweet-scented cotton, through which her favorite and special sachet is scattered, and after being tied daintily with ribbon about the wrist they are given to the favored young man, to place in his drawer among neckties and handkerchiefs or perhaps to put away in sacred solitude.

Holly Red—

In the softer silks and the dull finished satins is a charming and popular material for separate waists for house wear. Wash.-Jeff. Held Stars to Small Score--Cornell Beat Pennsy

THE STARS WON, BUT GOT A SCARE

Wash.-Jeff.'s Eleven Fought to the Finish and Held the Score Down.

THE FIRST HALF WAS A HOT BATTLE

College Team Outplayed the Stars in First Half--Both Scores Were Made in the Second Part of the Contest--Big Crowd Present.

Beyond any question the most stubborn and best-played football game of the local season was the one at Exposition park yesterday afternoon between the Homestead and Washington and Jefferson teams, which ended in a victory for Homestead by the remarkably low score of 12 to 0. It was a magnificent battle of brawn and brain from the start to the finish.

The struggle was witnessed by a typical holiday crowd which numbered 4,200, and it was an evenly divided attendance so far as partisanship was concerned. The college eleven had almost as many shouters as the blue and white team. There was a noticeable absence of the Washington county crowd which always follows the Washington and Jefferson team, and which is noted for its rooting qualities. The lusciousness of the Washington county turkey must have been the inducement to hold that crowd at home. The old-time dyed-in-the-wool rooters were out and shouted themselves red in the face, particularly at the finish of the first half, which was finished without either team being able to score.

Tough Weather for Spectators.

The weather conditions were favorable to the players, but rather tough on the spectators, and there was a stamping chorus in the grand stand which helped keep the feet warm. Out on the field back of the side lines where the experts generally assemble there were foot races galore indulged in by chilled spectators. The crowd out there was helped along in the warmth line by a "hot wiennie" man who did a rushing business and who must have thought he struck a famine district, judging from the fast manner in which his stock disappeared.

The most sought-for-man on the grounds, however, was the fellow who had been thoughtful enough to provide himself with a bottle, and there were quite a few of them present. The bottle business was responsible for the only ludicrous incident of the afternoon, and it happened in the second half of the game when the players had just got warmed up to their work. A Bleacher occupant who had grown overly enthusiastic by reason of a too intimate acquaintance with a bottle, dashed out on the playing field, and shedding his overcoat, broke in among the players and wanted to line up with them. A policeman soon hustled the embryo player off the field.

The game was scheduled to start at 2:30, but it was long after that time before the referee's whistle was blown for the start. There was very little betting done for the reason that there was no Washington and Jefferson money in sight. The followers of that team wanted odds that were out of question, and failing to get that, they wanted to bet that Homestead would not score more than four touch downs. Considerable money was bet that way and those who pinned their faith on the stars to make a runaway race of it were kicking themselves when the game was over.

Hard Field for Players.

The playing field was an awful affair, being frozen as hard as granite, and it was so hard and lumpy that the life and limb of the players were in danger at every tackle. How some of them escaped injury is beyond explanation because the tackling was fierce on both sides and the players were brought down with a bump that threatened to cave their heads in. The only player who was taken out of the game because of injury was Winstein of the stars, whose shoulder was twisted early in the second half and he was forced out of the game. Perry Hale taking his place.

The college players didn't do a thing but turn loose a surprise in the first half, when they not only held the Stars from scoring but actually outplayed them in all departments. They not only outplayed them in straight football, but they tricked them on the double pass, which netted Quarterback Aiken a run of 15 yards. The college line was largely responsible for this showing, as it held like adamant. The ends, too, also showed grand work, and repeatedly stopped attempts for end runs. To tell the truth, there was not a Wash.-Jeff. player who had to do his full duty, and when the half ended with no score the college team was cheered to the echo.

What was beyond doubt the prettiest work of the game was the stand made by the college team when the Stars had the ball on their two-yard line. Fultz had placed it there by a pretty end run, and the betting men were offering almost any odds that the Stars would score a touchdown. Capt. Aiken passed the word to his men to "work hard" and the advice was followed to the letter. Twice was Crollius sent against the line and each time he failed to gain. Then Winstein was called to take the ball over, and he hurled his massive frame against the line, but it failed to give, and the ball went to the college team and was kicked out of danger. This magnificent stand by W. and J. set its rooters wild with delight, and they danced about the field like wild men.

The nearest the Stars came to scoring in the first half was when Crollius fell on the ball on W. & J.'s 10-yard line. The quarterback kick was responsible for this and the play was attempted again, but this time it failed, as a W. & J. player secured the ball and Arthur Poe pushed him down for a safety, but safeties do not count for scores. In the first half the playing was largely in the Stars' territory, and the college team played sad havoc with Homestead's line, tearing it open almost at will, and making all sorts of gains through it.

The College Eleven Loudly Cheered.

The fine stand made by the college eleven in the first half cheered on its rooters to that extent that they were offering even money on a victory, and it soon was taken. The teams lined up without any changes for the second half, and it could be seen from the determined look on the Stars' faces that they meant business. Capt. Fultz said the fumbles in the first half was overconfidence, and he read his men a lecture in the dressing room. In this half the conditions were changed and it was the Stars who were doing the aggressive work, with the college team fighting on the defensive and making a grand fight of it. It certainly was a struggle worth looking at.

Again did the Stars get the ball within a few yards of the college goal, only to be thrown back. Then the quarterback kick was worked and Capt. Aiken of W. & J. made a fumble. Quick as a flash Capt. Fultz of the Stars gathered the ball in and shot over the line for the first touchdown, on which Mosse kicked goal. This costly fumble of the college team's leader seemed to take the heart out of his players, and the Stars soon scored their second touchdown. Gammons carried the ball over on a pretty end run. Twice during the game did Forkum of W. & J. try for a field goal from the place kick, and twice he failed. The first try was made in the first half from the 28-yard line, but was missed, and again in the second half from the 19-yard line and again it proved a failure.

The one unpleasant incident of the game happened in the second half, when Perry Hale tackled Capt. Aiken rather high, and the W. & J. leader's neck was twisted. The spectators, as is always the case, took the side of the smaller man and hissed the tackler, but this was unjustified. Aiken had tried two or three times to worm away from Hale and the Star simply used a little extra force to hold him. Taking the game from all points it was by far the most enjoyable of the season's games. Homestead's best effort by goals as there was entirely too much in fact they did more than any two other games this

The Story of the Game.

When the officials called the of the blue and white and red teams to the center of the field Edwards tossed the coin and of Homestead successfully called and took his braves down to defend the west goal. Forkum Wash.-Jeff. full back, whistled on the frozen ground and sent the out of bounds at 2:50 o'clock. try was successful, and the caught by Richardson on his 20-yard line. The Stars tried W. and J.'s line, but the collegians was surprising stead looked dazed for a minute termined to take no chance booted the sphere down to Jeff trailed their opponents' left it held well. Campbell hit the three yards and the Stars were It has been the policy to play a fast game with every season at the start-off. In this Washington and Jefferson men had been admirably coached, was simply a case of Greek against Greek. The Stars suddenly and the college line for downs. could not gain. Forkum got tackled Gammons back of the the collegians were putting up a article of football such as rarely seen at Exposition park a year. Crollius was again forced to Aiken and the Washington rooters went wild for a moment, made several line attempts, but defensive work of Homestead itself and Forkum was forced to Gammons, who was downed in the of the field.

Thought Stars Had Scored.

Fultz got around right end for yards. Crollius hit the center for more. Mosse lost on his try and Richardson made a quarterback through the slowness of the W. & J. backs to fall on the ball. Crollius on it on the collegians' Forkum punted and Richardson fair catch on the 25-yard line. Fultz and Crollius at center made it first down. Heimberger had Fultz on his left side cracked and Schmidt in for him.

Capt. Fultz now got into the game in earnest. He took the leather around the collegians' left end for a fine run of 30 yards, making the most brilliant play of the game for the Stars. This was too much for the Washington aggregation. They put on the stone wall front and held the Stars for downs. And the ball was just one yard from the scoring line. Perry Hale went in for Winstein and Forkum punted to Richardson, who regained 15 yards through fine interference of Gammons and Fultz.

Homestead's First Score.

The ball was now located on the W. & J. 20-yard line, and Richardson hurled to Aiken, who made a miserable fumble and Capt. Fultz grabbed up the leather and with Gammons, Richardson and Hale ahead of him crossed the line for the first touchdown of the game. Crollius punted out to Richardson and Mosse sent the ball squarely between the goal posts. Forkum kicked to Richardson on the goal line and he squirmed back 25 yards. On the second line-up Crollius fumbled and Forkum gathered the leather in and carried it to Homestead's 45-yard line. Murphy went to right halfback in place of Campbell for the collegians and Loucks took Murphy's place in the line. It was the intention of W. & J. to play the guards back formation, but they did not risk it and Forkum again tried a place kick for goal from field, but missed. Mosse kicked to Montgomery, and after several attempts at the Stars' line and no gain the collegians were compelled to punt. Right here it must be said that Forkum saved what looked to be a sure score for Homestead.

Fultz started with the leather around W. & J.'s left end, but the big Wash.-Jeff. fullback broke up the interference and downed the Homestead captain. McCutcheon went in for Bemis Harris and the rooters shouted he was from Missouri. Hayes showed him on the next play and Lang got through and tackled Fultz for a five-yard loss. Crollius kicked to Fultz, and the ball soon went to Homestead on a fumble by Montgomery.

The Stars were given 10 yards for off side play and Crollius hit center for 10 yards. The leather was now on Wash.-Jeff.'s five-yard line, and it looked dangerous. The collegians, however, held their opponents for downs and got the ball. Forkum punted to the 22-yard line. Fultz circled left end for three yards and Gammons got past everyone with the exception of Aiken, who tackled him high, and scored the last touchdown, from which Mosse again kicked goal.

Nelman took Gammons' place and later Crollius had kicked to Schmidt, who failed to gain. time was called with the ball in possession of Washington and Jefferson on their 40-yard line. The final score was Homestead, 12; Wash.-Jeff. 0. The following is the score and line-up:

Vanderbilt Won Fierce Game.

NASHVILLE, TENN., Nov. 28.—Four thousand people gathered on Dudley field today to see the bitter rivalry between the football teams of Vanderbilt university and the University of Nashville settled. The contest was a fierce one, Vanderbilt winning by a score of 12 to 0. The winners outgeneraled Nashville and their team work excelled, Harvard tactics being used throughout.

CORNELL'S TURN TO DOWN PENNSY

The Ithacans Scored Their First Victory Over the Red and Blue Team.

TWENTY THOUSAND PEOPLE THERE

The Struggle Was Fierce, but One-Sided--Coffin and Turnbull Made 75-Yard Runs for Cornell--Game Filled With Brilliant Plays.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 28.—The University of Pennsylvania football team ended its disastrous season today with a crushing defeat at the hands of the Cornell eleven, the Ithaca boys scoring 24 points to the Quakers' 0. It was the first time since the two universities have played football together that Cornell has been able to conquer Pennsylvania.

All through the contest the red and blue players fought their opponents every inch of the way, but the doughty boys from New York state were superior to them in every department of the game except in punting.

The visitors also got it to the play better and quicker than the home men, which counted for much in the mass plays. A notable feature of Cornell's attack was the fine interference for the runner in open plays. Two of her touchdowns were made solely through the good help given the man with the ball. On the defense Cornell was like a stone wall. It was near the end of the first half before Pennsylvania was able to make a first down, and the total made in the entire contest did not number more than 10. Cornell played her best in the first half, in which period she made 12 points to Pennsylvania's six. In the second half the Quakers' game improved, while the visitors seemed to let up a bit, but the latter managed to add two more touchdowns to their score.

The Big Crowd Was Enthusiastic.

The day was clear and quite cold. A very swift wind blew straight down the field from the west and made matters uncomfortable for the 20,000 persons who saw the game. It was the usual Thanksgiving day football crowd—enthusiastic to a degree.

Pennsylvania won the toss and chose the west goal, with the wind in her favor. Coffin for Cornell kicked off. Pennsylvania failed to gain and punted into Cornell's territory. On an exchange of kicks a minute later Cornell got the ball on her own 10-yard line. Purcell made 15 yards around left end and 10 yards were added through the line. Coffin was then given the ball and aided by magnificent interference ran 75 yards for Cornell's first touchdown. Coffin also kicked the goal, making the score Cornell, 6; Pennsylvania, 0.

Cornell then gave a fine exhibition of rushing the ball. Three times she carried it from within her own territory down to Penn's 20, 25 and 30 yard lines. Twice she lost it on downs and once on a fumble. Purcell, Coffin and Warner were used with great effect in carrying the ball. Penn, securing the ball on a fumble, kicked over Cornell's goal line. On the kickout Dale ran the spherical back 10 yards to Cornell's 38-yard line. Then Dale broke through the line, center for 28 yards and in the next scrimmage Capt. Davidson burst through right tackle for Penn's only touchdown. Davidson kicked the goal, making the score a tie.

Cornell braced up from their momentary demoralization and again put up a stiff game. The ball was worked up and down the field by each team until Penn got it on Cornell's 35-yard line. The Quakers tried a quarterback kick, which was caught by Turnbull on his own 35-yard line, and with a clear field in front and a stone wall interference behind, he ran 75 yards for Cornell's second score. Coffin kicked the goal. Score: Cornell, 12; Pennsylvania, 6.

The Second Half Was Slow.

The second half was a little more slowly played. Cornell ran the ball down the field from the kick-off to Penn's 43-yard line, where the Quakers were penalized 10 yards for off side play.

Halfback Purcell made 12 yards around left end and the next two attempts against Penn's line failed to make any impression. On the following line-up Coffin was given the leather and circled the left side of the Pennsylvania line for the third touchdown. He also kicked the goal, bringing the score to 18 points.

For the next 20 minutes the playing of both sides was very hard. Penn would push Cornell down the field and Cornell would hold the fighting Quakers and rush it quickly to the other end of the field. It was bucking the line in this way until Penn secured possession of the leather on downs on her own four-yard line. Reynolds' kick-out was very poor, and Brewster, catching the ball on Penn's 20-yard line, succeeded in eluding the Quaker runners until he was safely behind the goal posts for the final score of the game. Brewster kicked the goal. The game ended a few minutes later with the score unchanged at 24 to 6 in favor of the Ithacans.

In that time they scored 40 points, shutting out the Indians completely. In the last five minutes, however, the redmen, making a sudden and unexpected spurt, and Columbia weary, going to pieces from the previous hard work, the speedy Carlisle men gained 12 points almost in the twinkling of an eye, making the final score 40 to 12 in favor of the blue and white. THE ALL-STAR ELEVEN TO PLAY AGAIN ON SATURDAY

In answer to the appeal demanding the others of the Home-stead football people have finally consented to put their star eleven to play a second contest with the Philadelphia All-Star team. This contest will be played at Exposition park tomorrow afternoon.

This announcement will prove a pleasant one to the followers of football, who have been longing for a second meeting between the all-star elevens. The game was not decided on until yesterday and not before the players of the local team had been consulted, and they gladly gave their consent. It is stipulated in the agreement that the same players who took part in the game in Philadelphia be used in Saturday's contest. The Quakers are given permission to play Capt Davidson of Pennsylvania in place of Dr. Al, who was injured last Saturday, and Teas of last year's University of Pennsylvania eleven, in place of a player whose official duties will not permit him to come here with the team.

The contest will mark the close of the football season in this city, and the wind up will be a very fitting one. The Philadelphians are confident that they can beat Homestead, while Capt. Fultz's men are equally confident that they can run up a larger score than they did in the first contest.

LEHIGH WAS A MARK.

The Georgetown Team Scored an Easy Victory.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—The Georgetown university football team closed its season today by defeating Lehigh university 29 to 0.

The visitors were never seriously in the contest, both teams were weak on the defensive. At times Lehigh played an aggressive game, but for the most part the work was ragged and featureless. Both teams completed a large number of forward passes, but the play was quite similar, a straight football formation being the rule. Sullivan's punting for Georgetown was very good, while Baxter of Lehigh did some remarkable line bucking.

GARDINER IS CAPTAIN.

Pennsy's Right End Chosen for a Leader.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—Will Gardiner, right end of the University of Pennsylvania football team, was elected captain of the team tonight for next year. Gardiner is a student in the college department and graduates next year.

At dinner in the training quarters Coach Woodruff took his formal leave of the men. Speeches of felicitation were made by several of the players and Mr. Woodruff. Mr. Woodruff's plans for next year, if he has any, are not known.

Pittsburgh H. S. Team Badly Beaten in Annual Game at Youngstown.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—The annual football game between the Raven high school team of this city and the Pittsburgh high school eleven of that city today resulted in the overwhelming defeat of the Pennsylvania team by a score of 50 to 0.

The visitors put up a miserable exhibition in all departments and Raven scored almost at will. Pittsburgh's only gains were by long punts, they being totally unable to make any headway in either hitting the line or attempting the ends. The sensation of the game was an 85-yard run for a touchdown by Capt. Reel in the first minute of play.

THE CHAMPIONS OF THE WEST

Michigan Clinched Title by Walking Away From the Iowa Eleven.

SCORED TOUCHDOWNS AT WILL

Only Once Was Iowa Dangerous, but the Try for a Field Goal Proved a Failure—Ten Thousand People Watched the Battle.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Michigan scored almost at will against Iowa today, making 50 points to the Hawkeyes' naught. Thus Michigan closes the regular football season with a total record of 501 points, while that one of the teams she met has been able to score a single point against her. Iowa played a sturdy, plucky game, but was outclassed. Heston and Shorts played a spectacular part for the Wolverines.

Ten thousand people saw the game. As the wind was blowing across the gridiron, there was no advantage with either goal. Iowa had the kickoff and for a few minutes gave the Michigan supporters the only scare they had during the game. Sweely caught the punt and kicked back to Iowa's 45-yard line. Iowa gained ten yards through the mud by masses on tackle. Michigan held and Iowa punted. Michigan lost the ball on a fumble and Howell carried it 15 yards. Line plunges netted ten yards more and then Howell tried a goal from field, but missed, the wind carrying the ball to the right of the goal post.

Wolverines Clung to the Ball.

Thereafter Michigan's goal was never in danger. The Wolverines had the ball nearly all the time in Iowa's territory. They seldom failed to make their distance on first downs, and frequently made eight or ten yards on downs.

A series of straight line bucks and masses on tackle, together with two end runs of ten yards each, gave the Michigan team its first touchdown. The wind was responsible for a missed goal by Shorts. After the kickoff Michigan soon got the ball in the middle of the field and proceeded to make another touchdown in ten minutes. Two plunges against centre netted 12 yards. A mass on tackle netted ten more and then Shorts hurdled the line and made five yards more. Two more bucks completed the work. The punt out failed, leaving the score: Michigan 16, Iowa 0. It took the Wolverines but three minutes to secure the third touchdown. An exchange of punts gave Michigan the ball on Iowa's 40-yard line. Snow plunged through center for ten yards; Shorts hurdled right tackle for ten more, Heston went around left end and a moment later was pushed over the line. Shorts kicked goal. Wilson and McGugin carried the ball on the next attempt till the play was on Iowa's 10-yard line. Snow was then given the pigskin and made the remaining distance. Shorts kicked goal. Time on the first half was called with the score: Michigan 22, Iowa 0.

Line Bucking That Told.

The second half began with another series of irresistible line bucks, which earned the fifth touchdown for Michigan. Shorts missed goal. Iowa kicked off. Heston was given the ball on a fake kick and ran 50 yards to Iowa's 40-yard line. Snow and Howell made a punt and Weeks made a brilliant return of 30 yards. Heston went 45 yards for a touchdown. Shorts kicked goal. Score: Michigan 33, Iowa 0. It took but five minutes to secure the sixth touchdown, making the score: Michigan 39, Iowa 0. The feature of the play in securing the eighth touchdown was the sprinting of Heston, who made two runs of 20 and ten yards respectively, just the latter carrying him over the goal line. Shorts kicked goal. Score: Michigan 45, Iowa 0. Heston was given the ball on a fake kick and ran 35 yards to Iowa's 40-yard line. Shorts made the rest of the territory in four masses on tackle. Shorts missed goal. Time was called before the ball was again put in play, leaving the score: Michigan 50, Iowa 0.

Franklin Beaten--Colored Teams' Fierce Battle.

FRANKLIN LOST TO OIL CITY

By Fierce Line Bucking Visitors Scored Only Touchdown in First Half.

ROLLER AND LANG WERE THE STARS

Franklin Team Made a Desperate Effort to Score in Second Half and Once Had Ball to Oil City's Five-Yard Line.

FRANKLIN, PA., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—The best football game of the season was played here this afternoon, Oil City winning the contest by a score of 6 to 0.

About 3,000 people were present, Oil City sending 1,000 rooters to encourage their team.

The visitors scored in the first half by bucking the Franklin line after the home team had worked the ball to within 25 yards of the Oil City goal.

In the second half Franklin made a tremendous effort to score, but they could do nothing against the superior weight of the visiting team.

Oil City came loaded with outside talent, Roller and Lang of the Philadelphia All Stars, being among the number. Line-up:

MEADVILLE, PA., Nov. 28.—For the third time Allegheny defeated Westminster in the annual Thanksgiving game. The score this year was 11-0, all made in the first half. The field was covered with several inches of snow.

The first half was fast and snappy, but both teams were tired and more fumbles occurred in the second half. Both touchdowns were made by straight line bucks. Lampe's 40-yard run was a feature. Westminster's best work was done by Gamble, Tennant and Campbell. Allegheny's star players were McCartney, Lampe and Mook. Line-up:

Douglas Team Had Ringers.

The Olympia football team of Versailles was beaten by the score of 22 to 0 by the Douglas college team at Connellsville yesterday. The Versailles team allege that the team they played was not the regular college eleven, but a team of ringers secured for the occasion, and the members of the Versailles team are angry at the treatment received.

COLORED TEAMS FOUGHT A DRAW

THE ANNUAL FOOTBALL CONTEST WAS A FIERCE ONE.

Umpire Johnson Was Half of the Show, and Ruled Things to Suit His Own Pleasure—Head-On Collisions Were Frequent, but No Damage Was Done to the Players. Colored Girls Cheered Players.

The annual Rugby farce was furnished at Sewickley yesterday morning by the Afro-American team of the Ohio valley town and the celebrated Liberty A. C. of the East End. Neither team had seen in a football contest since the game on last Thanksgiving day, when the result was a no score tie, as was the case yesterday.

Every possible bit of football harness and paraphernalia which was ever seen upon a gridiron was brought into use by the dusky-skinned champions, while some of them had their shoulders stuffed with wedding until they looked like some new race descended from realms where football is a lost art. The strongest colors imaginable were used for the sweaters, and large streamers of red and black and blue and white, the respective colors, flaunted the air from the shoulders of the rough and ready players, as well as from the jackets of a following of elegantly-attired females of the colored race who cheered the braves on to combat.

Umpire Johnson was the whole show in the official line, and left no room for a referee. He carried an open rule book for continued reference, and never decided whether a yard had been gained or the ball kicked out of bounds without frantic appeal to the rules, and the book was often upside down. He caused the pigskin to change hands at his own pleasure whether it was first or third down, and would then announce, "I beg pardon, I was mistaken, but my decision goes." Frequent scraps were the result, but as all razors had been prudently left aside before the fun started, there were no serious mishaps. Head on collisions were frequent in every scrimmage, but the African skull was supreme and no one was retired from the game. Whenever a score was imminent Johnson would change the ball. The score and line-up:

Sewickley—0.		Liberty A. C.—0.
Harry Kirk	L. E.	Ed Downs
Bill Ford	L. T.	Newton
G. Wash. Jones	L. G.	Link Johnson

Jim Rease	Q. B.	Fess Robinson
"Frozen" Mims	L. H.	H. Ellis
F. Bernard	R. H.	John Hill
Bud Wilson	F. B.	Billy Borks

Officials—Johnson, McPherson for Sewickley and George Johnson for Liberty. Time of halves—29 minutes.

WOODLAKES ARE CHAMPIONS

Pittsburgh's Hand Ball Experts Won a Clever Victory Over Youngstown Team.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—By defeating the Cardinal handball team of Youngstown today the Woodlakes of Pittsburgh come into possession of the title of champions of Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. The games were played in series, and the winner was the team that scored the greatest number of points. The names of Burger, Winnog, Daniels and O'Connell go to show that the players engaged were of the highest order. Irwin and Murphy commenced the argument, and after playing a desperate game the Cardinal expert was victorious by the score of 21 to 17. Winnog and O'Connell appeared next, and from the very outset their meet was for blood, for each had an old offense to wipe out, which occurred while they were playing together on the St. Mary's team in Ireland. Winnog finally lost by the score of 16 to 21. The score now stood 42 to 33 in favor of Youngstown, and the betting was 5 to 3 in their favor.

The game between Burger and Daniels had no sooner commenced than the latter had scored three aces. Burger was not to be dismayed, but began to play in his old form, using his famous angle shots with telling effect, and used such brilliant headwork that the Cardinal star was all but out and soon lost by the score of 21 to 21, the title going to the Pittsburgh people. Score:

Woodlake.			Cardinal.

Winnog	21	O'Connell	21

THE CUP RACE WAS EXCITING

Neck-and-Neck Affair, but Warranted Pushed in and Took the Prize.

ONLY ONE FAVORITE SHOWED FRONT

The Largest Turnout Ever at Bennings Was Treated to Sport That Was Very High Class—Hurdle Event Was Easy for McFonso.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Thanksgiving day card of seven events, including a hurdle, a steeple and a race on the flat at two and a quarter miles for the Washington cup today drew to Bennings one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a day's racing on that track. Unmasked, coupled with Fonsolucia as the Lynn entry, was the only winning favorite. McFonso had little difficulty in winning the hurdle race, and G. W. Jenkins took the steeple chase in a similar manner. The cup race proved very interesting. Ringleader set a hot pace for the first mile, closely followed by Carbuncle and Surmise. After going a mile, Ringleader dropped back beaten and Carbuncle ran neck and neck until the head of the stretch was reached. In the meantime Warrented had worked himself into third position. RACED IN THE RAIN.

The Going at the Oakland Track Was Very Sloppy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Although the weather was very unpleasant a large crowd attended the races at Oakland today. The track was sloppy as the result of heavy rains, and some of the events were run in a downpour of rain. The Thanksgiving handicap at 1⅛ miles, valued at $2,500, was the feature of the card. It resulted in an easy victory for Flying Torpedo, who beat Grayfield two lengths. Janice took the small end of the purse. Rosewar won the Shasta Water handicap from Dean Swift and Homestead. Fine Shot proved a surprise in the fifth race, winning at odds of 15 to 1. Only two favorites scored. Summary:

RACED IN THE RAIN.

The Going at the Oakland Track Was Very Sloppy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Although the weather was very unpleasant a large crowd attended the races at Oakland today. The track was sloppy as the result of heavy rains, and some of the events were run in a downpour of rain. The Thanksgiving handicap at 1⅛ miles, valued at $2,500, was the feature of the card. It resulted in an easy victory for Flying Torpedo, who beat Grayfield two lengths. Janice took the small end of the purse. Rosewar won the Shasta Water handicap from Dean Swift and Homestead. IDEAL DAY FOR THANKSGIVING

Weather Conditions Added Materially to Enjoyment of Holiday.

DAY OF GOOD CHEER FOR MASSES

Thousands Visit Theaters and Athletic Fields, While Other Crowds Gather at Churches to Give Thanks.

With a bright sun shining overhead, now and then obscured by fleeting clouds, a frozen ground underfoot and a crisp, frosty atmosphere, thickened by white snowflakes, yesterday was an ideal Thanksgiving day in Pittsburgh. Rich and poor alike enjoyed to the full the beautiful weather, and the strong hint of the approaching winter added zest to the pleasures of the day, and freshened the most jaded appetite for the family feasts that are the leading feature of this great American holiday.

Factories and mills and stores were closed, only the absolutely necessary work being carried on, and the laboring classes of the two cities were given an opportunity to enjoy a midweek rest and a day of unalloyed pleasure.

Even the very poor could rejoice, for at all of the charitable institutions an effort was made to bring a bit of brightness into the passing day.

There was the usual religious side to the observance. In many churches union services of neighboring congregations were held. Denominational fences were crossed and persons of different creeds joined in worship.

In some of the public institutions special Thanksgiving services were held.

There was the customary social enjoyment. Family reunions around old-fashioned turkey-and-mince-pie dinners took place in endless number. The theaters had choice bills to entice the play lovers, and all seats were taken. Football games of more than ordinary interest attracted thousands to chilly grand stands. Old-fashioned turkey raffles and shooting matches took the attention of some. Many with thought for others than themselves visited hospitals and carried cheer with them.

Religious Services of the Day.

A largely attended and interesting service was held in the Fourth Presbyterian church, Evaline street. Members of the Pacific avenue, Friendship avenue and Christ Methodist Episcopal churches, the Fourth Presbyterian church and the Seventh and Shadyside United Presbyterian churches, united in this service. The Rev. Robert Christie of the Western Theological seminary preached.

In the East Liberty Presbyterian church a union service of the Tabernacle, Highland and East Liberty Presbyterian churches was held. The Rev. Dr. Allan Douglass Carlisle preached. The United Presbyterian churches of the East End met in united worship in the Sixth United Presbyterian church. The First, Fourth and Second Methodist Protestant churches met together in the Second Methodist Protestant church. The congregations of the Lincoln avenue and Park avenue Presbyterian churches sat together in the Park avenue church and heard a sermon by the Rev. W. B. Slutz.

At the new Jewish Temple in Eighth street, the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy preached on the subject: "Be Strong and Be of Good Courage." At the Second Presbyterian church the Rev. S. Edward Young lectured on "The Drama." The national hymns of many nations were sung. In Trinity Episcopal church Dr. Arundel preached, and the holy communion was celebrated. An offering was made for the Episcopal home.

Meetings in Nearby Towns.

The Ingram churches united at the service, held in the Ingram Presbyterian church, the Rev. D. A. Dunseith preaching.

All of the Mt. Washington churches held worship in the United Presbyterian church.

At Crafton the Methodist Episcopal church and the First and Second Presbyterian churches held a union service, at which the Rev. William Wallace Youngson preached.

The Rev. J. A. Snodgrass preached at a union service of the churches of Carnegie in the First Christian church of that town.

The Rev. E. A. Bosworth preached to the church members of Homestead in the Baptist church of that place.

In Allegheny the Methodist Episcopal congregation worshipped together in Calvary church. The Rev. Dr. E. J. Knox, presiding elder of Allegheny district, preached.

The Rev. Father Kelty, pastor of St. Philip's Roman Catholic church, preached in that church. The daily mass was offered as usual.

Dr. W. H. W. Rees preached in the Smithfield street Methodist Episcopal church.

The Rev. J. H. Wallace delivered the Thanksgiving address in the Eighth United Presbyterian church. The Rev. B. G. Newton preached in the First Congregational church. The Rev. Dr. E. H. Ward gave an interesting discourse on "Patriotism" in St. Peter's Episcopal church. The Rev. R. S. Laws preached in the Mt. Oliver Baptist church. The Rev. Dr. H. D. Lindsay preached an eloquent sermon on "The Civic Conscience" in North Presbyterian church, Allegheny.

The Sick Enjoyed a Treat.

At all of the hospitals there was a "fine Thanksgiving" turkey dinner, with celery, cranberry sauce, and other luxuries, in most cases, the principal feature. All the patients who could stand a hearty Thanksgiving meal got it. The same was true of the several institutions for the poor and aged.

The Allegheny General hospital had a turkey dinner with all the usual accompaniments. Many visitors went to the hospital and flowers in abundance were distributed in the wards. At St. John's general hospital visitors crowded the wards and took flowers to the patients. Everybody was happy. The patients in Mercy hospital were treated to a holiday dinner and received many attentions from the visitors, of whom there was an unusually large number. The tots in the Pittsburgh hospital for children spent a quiet day, but did not miss a big dinner.

The Episcopal church home, for whose benefit a collection was taken at the morning service at Trinity, had a noisy time, with lots of fun, according to the superintendent's report. The big family of 14 ladies and 80 children sat down to a repast in which no detail was overlooked. It was the regular visitors' Thursday and many friends called at the institution. The home for incurables celebrated with the inevitable dinner.

Day of Cheer Everywhere.

Owing to a quarantine for scarlet fever the home for the friendless had no visitors from the outside world. But there was good cheer within. A home service was held in the morning, conducted by those in charge of the home. About 175 children enjoyed the Thanksgiving meal.

There was a good sport at the Soldiers' Orphanage and home. In addition to the inevitable accompaniments of every successful Thanksgiving celebration there was a basketball game and a game of football.

The boys of the Industrial Home, in Euclid avenue, Allegheny, did not get to Oakdale for their dinner, as was expected, but they got a good one at the old home and had a good time.

At the county home the great feature was the dinner. It consisted of chicken, oysters, mashed potatoes and so on, of which 317 persons partook.

The Western Pennsylvania Deaf and Dumb institute at Edgewood celebrated in old-time style. In the morning A. L. Downing, one of the teachers, lectured to the students and former pupils. In the evening a party, with old-fashioned parlor games, was given.

Out at Bridgeville, at the city poor farm, the inmates were given a special dinner of pork and kraut. No service was held.

The inmates of the workhouse at Claremont were treated to the luxury of pork and beans, but at the Western penitentiary and the county jail the usual bread and water regime was enforced.

At the insane hospital at Dixmont there was nothing to distinguish the day from any other.

Maj. W. McC. Johnson, warden of the Western Penitentiary, celebrated his first Thanksgiving as an official of that institution yesterday. None of the shops were working and the prisoners were given a holiday. An extra dinner was prepared for their benefit. During the afternoon the prisoners were given an hour of music in the chapel. It is customary to allow them one hour in the evening, but yesterday the rules were changed a little and the prisoners assembled in the chapel. During the morning the Rev. J. L. Milligan, chaplain of the prison, delivered his sermon.

THE HOLIDAY PARADE.

Eighteenth Regiment Gave Thanksgiving Crowds a Treat—Soldiers Made a Fair Showing.

The annual Thanksgiving Day parade of the Eighteenth infantry yesterday was one of the best made by the regiment on a holiday for a long time. The companies averaged about 35 officers and men each, and the adjutant's field report showed 400 men in line. It was a splendid day for the parade. The air was fresh and bracing, and the old swinging step for which the command is famous was maintained along the entire route of march. The alignments were almost perfect, and the distance between companies well maintained.

The command was in light marching order. Overcoats were worn, but the knapsack was discarded. The rifles glistened in the morning sunshine, and as the head of the regiment entered Fifth avenue with the band playing a lively quickstep the crowds rushed to the center of the thoroughfare as the long line of blue straightened out on its march. It had been the intention of Col. Rutledge to have the field and staff mounted, and orders to this effect had been issued. The condition of the streets, however, was such that it was decided not to use mounts.

The formation was at Ross street and Fifth avenue, and the route was Fifth avenue to Market street, to Sixth avenue, to Stockton avenue, Allegheny, to Ridge, to Irwin, to North avenue, to Arch street, to Ohio, to Federal, to Sixth street, and the dismissal at Fifth avenue and Grant street. The parade was a credit to the command, and from the expressions of the bystanders it should appear oftener on the down-town streets of the city.

POLICE MADE A BRAVE SHOW

Allegheny Force Given Annual Thanksgiving Inspection and Medal Was Presented.

The annual inspection of the Allegheny police was made yesterday morning on North Diamond street. The men formed about 10 o'clock and after a short drill by Maj. Harry D. Fowler formed in a hollow square. Lieut. James Johnson was called from the ranks and presented with a handsome gold medal by John Henderson in behalf of Recorder John R. Murphy.

After the presentation speech congratulations were in order. The medal given Jenkinson was for bravery. On April 5 of the present year Jenkinson saved the lives of three persons in a fire in Irwin avenue. While passing the house of Mrs. Annie Mullen he smelled smoke and investigating found Mrs. Mullen and two children in the house in an unconscious condition. After carrying them all to safety he fell on the street, overcome by smoke.

The inspection was made by the recorder, Director of the Department of Public Safety Henry Albrecht and Superintendent of Police Henry Muth. Members of councils were also present, including the members of the public safety committee.

THANKSGIVING FIRE.

Flames Broke Out Yesterday Afternoon in Wholesale House of J. C. Hill & Sons.

Fire, of an unknown origin, caused a loss of about $15,000 to J. C. Hill & Sons, grocery commission merchants, No. 1097 Liberty avenue, yesterday afternoon. At 1:35 o'clock flames were seen coming from a small frame shed at the rear of the building and an alarm was sent in from box No. 37. The blaze was put out in short order by the firemen, although considerable damage resulted from the water.

The store, including the basement, first and second floors, were heavily stocked with merchandise, comprising a general line of groceries. The stock was almost entirely ruined. On the first floor was a large amount of canned goods, coffee and salt. In the basement was stored a big shipment of fish. Candies and a miscellaneous assortment of lighter goods filled the second story.

Frank Hill, manager, said he was unable to account for the origin of the fire. He said there was not a fire or light of any kind in the store and that there had been no person in the store since Wednesday night. Dozens of boxes of matches were piled in the rear of the first floor and one theory is that the fire was started by mice eating their way into the match boxes. In the shed at the back of the building was stored a carload of salt, paper and empty boxes.

The manager of the store said the fire could easily have been caused by some person throwing a lighted match into the shed. The fire was confined almost entirely to the rear of the store. A. N. Martin, a tobacco dealer next door, was at work in the office and was one of the first to discover the blaze. The Hill company estimate their loss at $15,000, and say that it is fully insured. The damage to the building will amount to about $800. It is owned by the Patterson heirs of Philadelphia.

TAX DODGING FAILS.

A Cap Manufacturer Tries to Escape By Division Among Children.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(Special.)—By a decision of the court of appeals, Corporation Counsel Whalen learned today that the city has been successful in fighting an entirely new phase of tax evasion. This was the creation of a secret trust by Marcus Davis, a Broadway cap manufacturer. Davis was charged with seeking exemption from taxes on $15,000 worth of personal property by secretly dividing the assets, which he maintained he held in trust for his children.

Davis sought to escape taxation by a writ of certiorari. When examined as to his taxable property, he admitted that he had about $122,000 of gross assets. He maintained that he had a right to reduce their value one-half for shrinkage. On his books he charged certain amounts to the credit of his children, and his doing so made nearly the whole of his assets non-taxable to him. He has several adult children, and these, on being examined at the same time as their father in regard to their taxable property, swore they had none. All the courts sustained the contentions of the corporation counsel and Mr. Davis will be compelled to pay the taxes and costs.

Orangemen's Home Cornerstone.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 28.—The cornerstone of the home for Protestant children and the aged and infirm of the local Orange institution, was laid today at Hatboro, a suburb of this city. The ceremonies were conducted by David T. Graham of New York, president of the Orangemen of the World.

TURKEYS WERE IN DEMAND

The Supply, However, Was Sufficient to Cover Yesterday's Heavy Calls.

20,000 OF THE BIRDS EATEN HERE

Dealers Are Already Preparing for Christmas Season and Anticipate Big Trade—Prices Cannot Be Predicted So Early.

There were turkeys for everybody yesterday, and the tables which were without the Thanksgiving day bird were not unsupplied because of any scarcity in the markets. Probably 20,000 were eaten in this immediate neighborhood, in addition to many chickens, ducks and geese, as well as rabbits. Dealers were busy all day Wednesday caring for the wants of those who were preparing for the annual feast, and no buyers were compelled to leave stores disappointed. Poultry houses were well filled with live stock, and several killings were made during the day as supplies of stock became exhausted by the large demand.

Country people who brought their own turkeys to market obtained from 19 to 20 cents a pound for the dressed stock, while wholesalers sold to retailers at a range of 14 to 15 cents, enabling the latter to retail at about 18 cents a pound, which was just about the range of prices predicted for the day. While there was no shortage, but few were left over, as there was no enormous surplus of stock, such as marked Thanksgiving trade last year.

It is too soon to predict just what conditions will prevail at Christmas time in the poultry market, as the supply throughout the country is shown to be smaller than last year, and the high price of corn has caused some farmers to hurry poultry to market rather than pay for feed, and to just what extent this has been done cannot yet be ascertained, even if prices are a little higher. Christmas in this vicinity it now no great a day for turkey as Thanksgiving, and another heavy run of poultry will be necessary to care for demands. Beside this, the day-to-day call for turkeys will be larger during the coming month than it was in November, and stocks will have less chance to accumulate.

OIL-SOAKED GRASS AFLAME.

Every Man in Spindle-Top Heights Field Turns Out to Prevent the Threatened Destruction.

BEAUMONT, TEX., Nov. 28.—The oil fire, briefly mentioned in the Gazette this morning, proved to be the most dangerous since the discovery of the Spindle Top field. For a time it was thought the field was doomed to destruction.

Plumbers working on pipes built a small fire several hundred feet northeast of the Exporter Land and Pipe Company's mill, on the northeast side of the field, to make a connection. The fire spread in the oil-soaked grass and soon got beyond control, threatening the great forest of derricks of the Hogg-Swayne syndicate.

Every fire on the field was extinguished in the boilers and every rig was shut down and the population of the field turned out to fight the flames. The men succeeded in staying the flames within 20 feet of the nearest derrick and finally extinguished them.

OMAHA COUNCIL DEFIED.

Both Burlington and Northwestern Railroads Have Laid Tracks Contrary to Orders.

OMAHA, NEB., Nov. 28.—The Burlington road took a hand in the trackage fight on its own behalf early today, and before daylight a force of fifty men laid a track up the alley west of Eighth street. They were in the act of putting in a crossing over the Northwestern tracks, when a squad of special police stopped the proceeding.

Both roads now have tracks laid in violation of the orders of the city council, and are still keeping a force of watchers to prevent interference with the progress already made.

Will Extend a Good Work.

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—The Rev. Dr. France E. Clark, president of the World's Christian Endeavor, will sail for Europe January 4, where he will give his personal efforts to establishing the society more firmly on the continent. He will be away about seven months.

MISSION FEAST A GREAT SUCCESS

BIBLE CLASS MISSION FEEDS ITALIANS AND NEGROES.

Denizens of Negley's Run Had a Great Time Last Night at Their Annual Thanksgiving Dinner. Volunteers of America Feed Allegheny Waifs and Send Them Home Happy.

Twenty well-fed turkeys and a wagonload of Thanksgiving luxuries disappeared during an entertainment given last evening by the Bible Class United Mission of Negleys run. Over 150 colored people, young and old, and an equal number of swarthy Italians who are too poor to feast on turkey at home were directly responsible for the loss of the eatables. Children and parents sat side by side at the long tables, and the gleaming teeth of the pickaninnies and snapping eyes of the Italian youngsters told how keen was their enjoyment. A piano, a stringed orchestra and a Sunday school chorus helped along the merriment. In the midst of the banquet stalwart messengers darted in and out carrying 20 or more well filled baskets of delicacies to sick persons in the neighborhood. Masters mission, also in Negleys run, accepted an invitation to be present and helped in the work of serving.

The "B. C. U.," as it is called, has been working three years. Its workers represent seven churches of East Liberty, and it depends for its financial support upon voluntary contributions. A good building was erected last May, but this was burned the day of the McKinley memorial service. Another building, 16x55 feet, has just been completed. The mission now sustains a Sunday school of 100 and a Bible class of 50 members, which meet Sunday afternoon. Regular preaching services are held Sunday evenings, and a mothers' sewing class on Wednesday afternoons. The officers are: W. H. Gleazen, president; Henry Stewart, vice president, and David Bissett, secretary.

Thanksgiving dinner was served to upward of 300 waifs in the armory of the Volunteers of America, 508 East Ohio street, yesterday afternoon. The work of feeding the needy poor of the city was under the supervision of Captain and Mrs. W. Collins, in charge of the army post. Fifteen turkeys, 20 chickens, a number of roasts and many hams were required for the feast and when the repast was over nothing remained.

The dinner commenced at noon and by 6 o'clock 300 waifs were fed and many were waiting their turn.

The poor of the city with families who could not attend were well provided for. Basket loads of good things were dispatched to over 60 families.

MAY BEAT SUEZ ROUTE.

Australian Authorities Testing the American Route for Mail Between the Antipodes and London.

OMAHA, NEB., Nov. 28.—A consignment of 418 sacks of Australian-London mail, the last of a series of three shipments, was transferred from the Union Pacific to the Burlington here this afternoon and hurried on to the east. By special arrangement it will be rushed to Chicago, reaching there at 3 o'clock tomorrow morning, to catch the fast Lake Shore mail for New York.

The change here required but fifteen minutes. These shipments are being made to test the economy of time by the American route as against the movement through the Suez canal.

DECLINED A DUKEDOM.

Death of a Kansas Labor Leader Who Was Heir to English Title.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 28.—Edward J. Phillips, secretary of the Trades Assembly of Kansas City, Kan., is dead, aged 58. He was a native of Wolverhampton, England, and was reputed to be heir to an English dukedom, which he had refused, and to an estate of $700,000, which was in progress of settlement.

FARMER JUROR BLOWS OUT GAS.

His Dead Body Found in Hotel, but the Trial Will Go On.

DES MOINES, IA., Nov. 28.—Charles Meinkey of Fontanelle, Ia., a juror in the Balliet mining case, now on trial in the United States district court here, was found dead in his hotel room today. It was evident he blew out the gas before retiring and was asphyxiated.

His death will not interfere with the trial, and the case will proceed with 11 jurors tomorrow. Meinkey was a farmer and estimated to be worth $50,000.

BROWN HOLDS AX TO THE STONE

Flinn Goes to Headquarters, but Recorder Is Busy Elsewhere.

CARNIVAL OF RIPPING EXPECTED TODAY

Ward Leaders and City Committeemen Are Called Into Conference and Are Told of the Plans Made for Today.

Senator William Flinn spent Thanksgiving at headquarters. Recorder Joseph O. Brown was not there. It was reported that he was at home sharpening a double-bitted ax for use today. This is to be made a "black Friday" unless plans are changed to ward off the possible needoo.

There were a number of ward leaders with the senator all afternoon. The subjects discussed were the distribution of jobs and the councilmanic elections.

Members of the city committee were also given the tip that they were to be enthusiastic Stone men at the meeting tonight that is to indorse the governor for dealing with them.

The final arrangements for ripping are to be made today. The ward leaders and councilmen will get their final answers on appointments. The directors of departments will have consultations with the recorder and notices of removal will be sent out.

The machine is looking about for a candidate for congress in the Thirty-first district composed of the First, Nineteenth and Twenty-third wards. James F. Burke is in the field as a stalwart candidate, but the Flinn people will oppose him. At first an attempt was made to get Senator Flinn to make the run, but he has declined. Some of his friends are still hopeful, however, of getting him into the field.

Leslie May Want Coaxing.

Max G. Leslie of the Seventeenth ward has been mentioned. He says he is not a candidate, but it is possible he wants to be coaxed. There are also two ex-mayors, William J. Diehl and Henry P. Ford, among the probabilities. Mr. Diehl lives in the Nineteenth ward, the home of candidate Burke, and Mr. Ford resides in the Eleventh ward. Mr. Diehl may be forced upon.

Max Leslie says that the new department ordinances must specify the number of men to be employed in each bureau and the salary that they are to receive. If additions have to be made in the future it will be necessary to amend the ordinances. He favors an increase of about 100 patrolmen in the bureau of police. It is his opinion that the millage will have to be raised. It is now 15 mills, and Mr. Leslie thinks that it may be necessary to add two mills. He asserts that many of the appropriations for this year are short, and that it is practically demonstrated that the town cannot be run on a 15 mill basis.

A Change in Tune.

There were a number of Flinnites gathered at headquarters yesterday that in days gone by have said things about Gov. Stone. Now they are loud in his praise. Max Leslie was defending the action of the governor in removing A. M. Brown.

It is possible that he was referring in his speech of this evening when the city committee will grow eloquent about the "great and good governor." Mr. Leslie was asked: "Do you admire Gov. Stone?"

"How do you mean?" was his query.

Seeing that he did not want to swallow the whole bunch at a gulp, a division of the question was allowed.

"As a politician," said Mr. Leslie, "he is the best that ever happened."

"How long have you had that opinion?"

"Ever since the riot act was passed."

"Was it not about that time your crowd started to deal with him?"

"Well, he is a good politician."

"What do you think of him as a man?"

"I am just discussing him as a politician."

"As a governor do you consider him the friend of the people?"

"I am discussing him as a politician."

Mr. Leslie thinks that the city will buy the plot of ground owned by the Schoenberger estate at Forty-sixth and Butler streets, for park purposes. There are over four acres of ground and there has been an attempt for some time to sell it to the city. An appropriation of $75,000 was set aside by councils.

The impression prevailed that Mr. Leslie was overly anxious to have the city buy the ground.

Watch Coffee

Watch Carefully Its Effect on You.

Any brain worker who depends on thought for his success in life, uses up daily, by brain work, a varying amount of the delicate particles of potash and albumen, of which the brain and nerve centers are composed.

This breaking down of the little cells each day, from brain work, is a natural process, and the cells can readily be rebuilt from the right sort of food, if the system is not interfered with by drugs. If brain fag or nervous prostration sets in, the evidence is plain that nature is not rebuilding as fast as work is tearing down. There is some reason. What is it? Look first to the coffee cup, for coffee is known to interfere with and prevent the proper nourishment of the nerves in highly organized people.

Frequently the trouble first shows in dyspepsia, lack of power of the bowels to operate properly or palpitation of the heart or some other lack of vitality and healthy vigor. Then comes brain fag and that tremendous collapse called nervous prostration. There is but one thing for a sensible man or woman to do,—quit coffee absolutely. "Hard to do," you say. Take up Postum Food Coffee, use it regularly, have it well made, so it tastes good. You will find a well-defined, unmistakable change in your health, and there is a reason for it.

You will have become free from the breaking down force of coffee, and, on the other hand, you will be taking a powerful, nourishing liquid food which quickly rebuilds the new cells. These are facts,—profound facts, ready for any one to prove to their own satisfaction by actual use. Postum Food Coffee is made at the famous pure food factories of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., and is used by brain workers all over the world. Don't call it a substitute for coffee, leave out the coffee proposition altogether. Postum is a liquid food [illegible]

RAILROAD BUYS COAL PROPERTY

Steel Corporation Officers Manage Sale of Mines in Virginia.

NORFOLK & WESTERN THE PURCHASER

Famous Pocahontas Field, Which Was the Scene of the Recent Disaster, Changes Owners—Result of Railroad Rivalry.

SPECIAL TO THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—One of the most important coal mining deals that has occurred the attention of New York financial circles for some time was closed here today. It was the purchase by the Norfolk & Western Railroad Company of famous Pocahontas group of mines along the border between Virginia and West Virginia and directly tributary to the railroad, whose officials have made the purchase. The group includes the Baby mine, in the shaft of which, two weeks ago, 12 miners lost their lives by an explosion of gas, and a few days later eight officials were killed by white damp while making an inspection of the wrecked mine. The accident at the Baby mine and the death of eight of the owners were potent incidents largely instrumental in terminating the deal for the Pocahontas group of mines which has been pending, it is said, for several months.

The purchase price was $20,000,000, paid in 4 per cent bonds, and the transaction was managed by Judge James A. Gary, president Charles M. Schwab and Mr. Seaboun, all of the United States Steel Corporation, who are said to have realized handsomely on the deal. The purchase price was an increase of 45 per cent over the figure at which the Pocahontas lines were taken but a short time ago, and means a neat profit to all the selling interests.

The purchase of the Pocahontas coal field by the Norfolk & Western Railroad Company is a part of a gigantic campaign for railroad supremacy in the coal territory of Virginia and West Virginia, with terminals on the Atlantic seaboard and the great lakes. The recent purchase of the Little Kanawha railroad in West Virginia by Senator Stephen B. Elkins and is announced alliance with the Wabash system with a proposed extension of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad either from Zanesville, O., or Wheeling across the two Virginias to the coast at Newport News, has sharpened railroad activity in that section and given new impetus to the already great activity in coal deals, and the Norfolk & Western contemplates holding the field against its proposed rivals.

IN THE MONEY MARTS.

Quotations of Commercial Paper at Various Centers.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The sum of £50,000 gold was withdrawn from the Bank of England today for shipment to points on the continent. Exchange rates are quoted as follows: Buenos Ayres, 132.40; Madrid, 42.30; Lisbon, 35.60. Gold at Rome has declined to 220.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—Exchange on London 20 marks 4 pfenigs. Discount rates—Short bills, 4 per cent; three months' bills, 3¾ per cent. Spanish 4s and Chinese securities were firm on the bourse today. Banks marked unchanged. Locals were fairly maintained. Canadian Pacifics were slightly easier on New York advices.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Three per cent rentes 101 francs 5 centimes for the account. Exchange on London, 25 francs 16 centimes for checks. Spanish 4s, 72.20.

Foreign Bourses.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Although the requirements for the conclusion of the settlement are trifling, the markets were attributed to New York selling. Americans were slow, owing to the holiday. The slight changes were mostly downward. Prices closed quiet. Kaffirs were the strongest feature in the statement that the number of returning refugees to the Rand will be doubled December 1, and that six additional mines will be allowed to start again.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Prices on the bourse today opened firm, but weakened later on a further decline of Rio Tintos, in consequence of numerous selling orders on the sharp fall in copper. The close was firm. Government rents were well disposed and Spanish 4s were in request, owing to an unconfirmed rumor that the Rothschilds London house was going to float a loan guaranteed by the mines at Almaden. Spanish rails were favorably influenced by better exchange. De Beers and Kaffirs opened firm, but toward the close realizing sales caused weakness. The private rate rate of discount was unchanged at 2 13-16 per cent.

Foreign Bank Statement.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes: Total reserve, decreased £56,000; circulation, increased £214,000; bullion, increased £157,460; other securities, increased £354,000; other deposits, increased £2,379,000; public deposits, decreased £1,580,000; notes reserve, decreased £16,000. Government securities unchanged. The proportion of the Bank of England's reserve to liabilities is 47.91 per cent. Last week it was 47.77 per cent. The rate of discount unchanged at 4 per cent.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes: Notes in circulation, increased 6,850,000 francs; treasury account current, increased 12,250,000 francs; gold in hand, increased 41,675,000 francs; bills discounted, increased 122,700,000 francs; silver in hand, decreased 125,000 francs.

PITTSBURGH PRICES FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Markets Open This Morning With Steady Quotations. No Price Changes.

There were no local markets yesterday, business houses in the wholesale district being closed all day, except for a short time in the morning, when a few regular natives of each firm were on hand to look over the morning mail and take care of perishable stock. There has been a most satisfactory trade in all lines for Thanksgiving day, and all jobbers appear to be pleased with results.

There was no call at the grain exchange and no receipts were bulletined, consequently there has been no change in prices and the list of quotations is the same this morning as yesterday.

In groceries flour will likely rule at the opening today the same as on Wednesday, but whether or not there will be any change before the day is over cannot be said. There is no doubt but the railroad strike and the congested condition of freight which had previously been an obstacle to prompt deliveries, are interfering with business, and quotations may be affected locally, unless relief is soon afforded. Canned goods and dried fruits open this morning firm, with all prices unchanged.

In the fruit and produce market there is a difference of opinion among dealers as to what will be the outcome of the present condition of affairs. Potatoes have been steadily advancing until they have reached a strong position at $1 per bushel, and there are those in the business who think prices will be 10 to 15 cents higher inside of the next few days. Others claim that prices are high enough, and that there are enough potatoes now in the yards to take care of trade for some days to come, if the freight blockade continues, and allows no more to arrive, and that prices must get easier. If they do, however, of course there will be easier conditions in other lines. Onions are notables, which have been advancing with potatoes. Today and tomorrow will tell the tale as to what the outcome is to be. Celery sold readily on Wednesday and cleaned up well.

Tropical fruits had a lively week, oranges and bananas selling freely. Malaga grapes are good movers and sold in large quantities.

Butter, eggs and cheese are all unchanged. Tied up railroad service is menacing trade, however, and dealers are complaining of inability to secure goods promptly.

But few dressed turkeys were left over after the rush of Wednesday, a few being offered on the street early yesterday morning and found purchasers. Prices on Wednesday held fairly steady, although in the afternoon, when it looked for a while as though there might be a shortage, there was some stiffening up in figures, but not to any great extent. Some live remained in the hands of dealers, and these will offer today at prices which have been ruling all week.

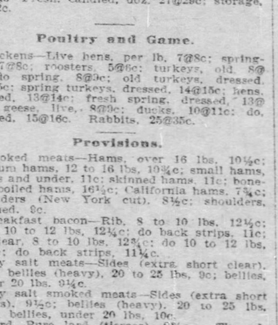
WHAT CAUSES DEAFNESS?

The Principal Cause is Curiable but Generally Overlooked.

Many things may cause deafness, and very often it is difficult to trace a cause. Some people inherit deafness. Acute diseases like scarlet fever sometimes cause deafness. But by far the most common cause of loss of hearing is catarrh of the head and throat.



A prominent specialist on ear troubles gives us his opinion that nine out of ten cases of deafness is traced to throat trouble; this is probably overstated, but it is certainly true that more than half of all cases of poor hearing were caused by catarrh.

The catarrhal secretion in the nose and throat finds its way into the Eustachian tube and by clogging it up very soon affects the hearing, and the hardening of the secretion makes the loss of hearing permanent, unless the catarrh which caused the trouble is cured.

Those who are hard of hearing may think this a little far fetched, but any one at all observant must have noticed how a hard cold in the head will affect the hearing and that catarrh if long neglected will certainly impair the sense of hearing and ultimately cause deafness.

If the nose and throat are kept clear and free from the unhealthy secretions of catarrh, the hearing will at once greatly improve and anyone suffering from deafness and catarrh can satisfy themselves on this point by using a fifty cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a new catarrh cure, which in the past year has won the approval of thousands of catarrh sufferers, as well as physicians, because it is in convenient form to use, contains no cocaine or opiate and is as safe and pleasant for children as for their elders.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is a wholesome combination of Blood root, Guaiacol, Eucalyptol and similar antiseptics and they cure catarrh and catarrhal deafness by action upon the blood and mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

As one physician aptly expresses it: "You do not have to draw upon the imagination to discover whether you are getting benefit from Stuart's Catarrh Tablets; improvement and relief are apparent from the first tablet taken."

All druggists sell and recommend them. They cost but fifty cents for full sized package and any catarrh sufferer who has wasted time and money on sprays, salves and powders, will appreciate to the full the merit of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. 1157wxpl

A Few Small Wells Brought In

Reports from the lower southwest fields were very light yesterday, and contained nothing out of the ordinary. Routine work was about all that was reported.

On Richwood run, Wetzel county, the Carter Oil Company has drilled in and shot its No. 3 on the F. W. Bartlett farm, and has a 35-barrel producer in the Gordon sand.

In the Big Injun sand development, west of Stringtown, Tyler county, Goodkind & Kleeburg have completed their No. 4 on the Thos. McCormick farm and have a natural producer in the Big Injun sand, good for 10 barrels a day.

In the Bristoria field, in Greene county, the South Penn Oil Company has completed No. 4 William Clendenning; No. 4, D. F. Staggers heirs; No. 3, Catherine Pinkhart, and No. 4, J. L. Painter. Each will make a 16-barrel pumper.

East of the Campbells run development one and one-half miles in Monongalia county, M. L. Benedum has drilled a test well on the Albert Kennedy farm through the Big Injun sand and has developed a light gas pressure. It is now drilling to the lower sands.

On the south fork of Hughes river, Ritchie county, the Carter Oil Company has drilled its No. 5 on the John Dehcular farm through the Big Injun sand and has a 30-barrel producer. This well is located in the Big Injun sand development, which has of late been attracting some attention. The Carter Company is starting some new work on the M. H. Davis and Z. Flannaghan farms, and the Hartman Oil Company is starting some new work on the C. M. Ireland farm.

Southwest of Wolf Summit, Harrison county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 4 on the G. T. Richards farm through the fifth sand and found that formation barren. It may make a small well in the Gordon sand.

Great activity prevails in Marshall county, extending from the "Little Germany" district, northeast to the Cameron development. In these two developments and on the intervening territory there are 60 rigs drilling and rigs up. Within the next week or ten days there will be six or eight wells due in the sand, and each will have an important bearing on some part of the development.

On the Ohio side, in the Macksburg field, in Washington county, the John S. Dunn Company has drilled its No. 2 on the John Crock farm into the 500-foot sand and has a 10-barrel producer. In the same development, Aiken & Blackerbee have drilled their No. 68, on the George Dyer farm, through the 500-foot sand and have a duster.

Test of Beaumont Fuel Oil.

BEAUMONT, TEX., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—One of the most important tests made with fuel has just been completed by Charles Clarke & Son, dredging contractors at Galveston. There has been a great many calculations made showing the advantage of oil for fuel over coal, but this is the actual test of any considerable amount of time.

Charles Clarke & Son are doing dredging work for the government at the port of Galveston, and began figuring on oil for fuel soon after the strike. It required some time for the oil companies to build their pipe lines and the company to construct a barge for a reserve. On account of the time lost in making these arrangements they have just learned what their actual saving is in dollars and cents for a month's run. The boilers used on the dredges make 3,000 horse-power, and the following results were obtained from coal and oil:

Coal, per month	$9,500
Oil, per month	1,250
Transportation to Galveston	450
Storage barge	3,000
	$5,200
Difference in favor of oil	4,300
Saving in firemen, etc	700
Total saving for a month	$5,000

In the above figure must be born in mind that the expenditure of 3,500 for a storage barge will not occur next month. The supply barge is used to store oil in wherever the boats may be in the future, and one that is built inland and will last for many years. The company, however, added the item in on the month's expense account for fuel, and the record is taken as they made it.

A saving of $5,000 per month on a fuel bill of less than $10,000 will give an insight into the future of fuel oil and the cause of its rapid introduction where freight rates will permit. The saving has proven so great that oil companies which originated in the northern states are figuring on transportation to their own cities and towns as high up as Illinois. Especially is this true of the states along the Mississippi river. Other companies believe that they will get a satisfactory freight rate as far up as St. Louis, which will open up a large fuel territory at once. The daily shipments by rail shows a good increase every week, as cars are added and facilities improved. There has not been a time for several weeks that the supply of cars has been equal to the orders. A great many of the oil companies are doubling their stock of cars, and the railroads have given assurance that they will do all in their power to furnish cars.

GOV. TAFT IMPROVING.

Skin Grafting Over His Wound Has Been Successfully Performed—Will Visit This Country Soon.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 28.—Former Congressman Charles P. Taft, publisher of the Times-Star, and a brother of governor general of the Philippines, William H. Taft, today received a cablegram from Manila, stating that Surgeons Stafford and Rhodes have successfully grafted the skin on Gov. Taft's wound and he will probably be able to pay his projected visit to the United States at the end of December.

A party of Cincinnatians, headed by J. G. Schmidlap, the banker, had expected to leave this week on a tour around the world, their objective point being a visit to Gov. Taft at Manila. They have postponed their trip indefinitely on advices from Manila and arrangements will be made to give Gov. Taft a reception here by his old neighbors on his return.

Life Lost in a $500,000 Fire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The works of the National Enameling and Stamping Company in Brooklyn were entirely destroyed by fire early today, and George Koch, a watchman, was burned to death. The loss will be more than $500,000. The plant occupied nearly an entire block.

Wool.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—At the wool auction sales today there were 14,042 bales offered. The attendance was good, the home and continental buyers being the chief operators. Low inferior sorts were in buyers' favor. Competition for fine grades was spirited. Cross breds sold well at full opening rates. Americans purchased suitable lots of cross breds. The sale in detail was as follows:

New South Wales, 2,300 bales; scoured, 4½d @1s 6d; greasy, 3½@9d.

Queensland, 1,500 bales; scoured, 8¼d@1s 7½d; greasy, 7½@8¼d.

Victoria, 3,200 bales; scoured, 8½d@1s 8d; greasy, 2½@10½d.

South Australia, 400 bales; greasy, 3@6½d.

West Australia, 900 bales; scoured, 1s ½d; greasy, 4½@7½d.

New Zealand, 4,700 bales; scoured, 3¾d@1s 3½d; greasy, 2½@10d.

Cape of Good Hope and Natal, 900 bales; scoured, 7d@1s 1½d; greasy, 4@7¼d.

SLAVERY GOING IN PHILIPPINES

Without Using Actual Force, Uncle Sam's Policy Will Extinguish It.

POWERFUL DATTO SETS THE EXAMPLE

The Native Federal Party a Great Factor in Educating the People to Accept American Rule—Legislative Work of Commission.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—Slavery as an institution in the Philippine islands is doomed. The system still exists among the Moros, but in a mild form, and any slave who so desires can have his freedom by coming into the American lines.

In a supplemental report on the Philippine islands Secretary of War Root briefly of the status of the slavery question. He says:

"It is gratifying to report that the efforts of the American officers to bring about a cessation of the practice of slavery among the Moros are not fruitless. The character of the slavery practiced is quite unlike that formerly practiced in the United States in this, that the Moro slave, so-called, becomes a member of the owner's family, enjoying many privileges, often having voluntarily sold himself into slavery to better his condition. The so-called slaves themselves exhibit no special anxiety to change their condition. All who seek freedom receive it upon coming into the American lines.

The secretary incloses in his report a proclamation from Dattomandi, one of the most powerful of the Moro chiefs, which is a practical prohibition of slavery in his dominions.

Concerning the political situation in the islands the report says:

The organization of the Federal party in the Philippines, which has extended throughout the provinces, loyally accepting the sovereignty and asserting the sincerity and beneficent purpose of the American people, has been of the utmost value. The character of the military officers who have commanded, of Governor Taft and the members of the commission, and of the assistants whom they have gathered around them, has commanded respect and dispelled suspicion throughout a field of influence widening steadily as they have become known. A country is very fortunate which can draft from its citizens such men into the public service.

I believe that each successive step in the practical development of American purpose in the Philippines will result in wider appreciation and approval in the islands, and that we may reasonably look forward to a time not far distant which will be characterized by general good feeling, established confidence, and active co-operation on the part of all the peoples of the archipelago in our efforts for their benefit. The course will not be without its difficulties, discouragements and reverses, but cheerful and persistent courage, faithful to the spirit of our institutions, will prevail.

Secretary Root gives a detailed history of the extension of civil government under American auspices in the archipelago, beginning with the appointment of the present Philippine commission. The work of that body has in effect borne fruit in a complete constitution and code of laws for the islands, embracing schemes of provincial, municipal and general government. Native police, a tariff law, a judiciary system and a complete plan of education which ultimately will make English the language of the Philippines are included among the enactments of the commission.

Further legislation by congress in behalf of the dependency is needed, according to Secretary Root. Among the laws needed is one to reform the currency and another granting power to the province to contract debts. One of the chief objects of the latter is to buy lands and other property of the religious orders and bring the same to the public domain.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARIES.

Roosevelt Returns the Compliment of the Turkish Sultan.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—Having received official notice from the Turkish minister at Washington that yesterday was the anniversary of the birth of the sultan, President Roosevelt sent that monarch a personal telegram of congratulation. This was in return for a similar compliment paid by the sultan to President Roosevelt on the occasion of his birthday last month.

The custom of exchanging congratulatory messages of this kind was begun a great many years ago, and is faithfully observed by most of the rulers of European governments. The late Queen Victoria always kept informed with respect to the birthdays of American Presidents and never failed to send a personal telegram of congratulation and the compliment always was reciprocated on the anniversaries of her birth.

SISTERS WED BROTHERS.

One of the Happy Couples Take a Train for Pittsburgh.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—This afternoon at the Baldwin Memorial church, Waterbury, Md., occurred the marriages of two sisters to two brothers—Miss Florence Louisa Williams to Archibald Tindall, and Miss Mary Helen Williams to James Tindall. Each couple had a separate group of attendants and both bridegrooms are well known in Washington society.

The first couple was married by the Rev. E. Hez Swem of this city, assisted by the Rev. Mr. McLaren of Waterbury, and the second couple by the Rev. Mr. McLaren, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Swem. Miss Elsie Williams was maid of honor for the first bride and Miss Ruth McLaren for the second.

The two couples took the special train, which had been engaged for the purpose, and came to Washington, where Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Tindall will live. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Tindall will go direct to Pittsburgh.

ROSEBERY'S BUTLER'S FALL.

Pawned His American Employer's Sparklers for Betting Money.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(Special.)—Frederick Stetterfield, an English butler, 30 years old, who left the employ of Lord Rosebery in England to try his fortune in this country, was held for grand larceny in police court this morning on complaint of Edward Russell Thomas.

Mr. Thomas, who became president of the Seventh National bank a short time before its disastrous failure, charged Stetterfield with having stolen two valuable pins while in his employ. Stetterfield, who is a tall, innocent-looking young man, confessed that he had taken the pins and pawned them for $20 each, and that he had used the money to bet on horse races. He explained that he had never intended to steal the pins. It had been his intention to redeem them as soon as he could and before they were missed.

OLD FAVORITE BACK ON STAGE.

Widow of Ex-Congressman Miner Will Resume Her Art.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(Special.)—Charles Frohman has induced Mrs. H. Clay Miner, widow of the congressman and theatrical manager, to resume her name of Annie O'Neill and go back to the stage under his management. She has signed contracts to reproduce at the Madison Square theater on December 30 the role of "Joan Trevelyan" in Basil Hood's comedy, "Sweet and Twenty," which was the hit of her stage career.

She recently sold her fine house on Riverside drive to Alan Wood of Pittsburgh, and had settled at Red Bank, N. J., with her little son, intending never to go back to theatrical life.

COMMITTEE IS READY FOR WORK

THE ALLEGHENY VICE SITUATION CAREFULLY REVIEWED.

Permanent Organization Effected at First Meeting and Second Session, Soon to Be Called, Will Put the Machinery of Reform Into Operation—Evidence Showing the Condition of Affairs Was Considered.

The committee appointed last Monday to improve conditions in the vice-infested wards of Allegheny held its first meeting yesterday afternoon in the Allegheny Theological seminary, North avenue and Buena Vista street, Allegheny. An organization was effected by the election of the Rev. Dr. John McNaugher as chairman and the Rev. Dr. Henry D. Lindsay as secretary.

The original committee consisted of nine members. Of these Albert A. Horne and J. Walter Hay have been unable to accept.

Those present at yesterday's meeting, besides Dr. McNaugher and Dr. Lindsay, were the Rev. Dr. J. H. Ingas, the Rev. Dr. W. H. McMillan, James M. Stoner and George B. Logan. James W. Grove, the seventh member of the committee, was detained at the last minute and could not attend.

Yesterday's meeting was purely preliminary. The situation was thoroughly discussed and various plans of campaign were suggested. The members were in session for an hour and a half, and when they separated had an excellent working knowledge of the existing state of affairs.

A great mass of evidence, largely gathered by The Gazette, was read to the committee, so that all have a thorough understanding of the wide-open way things have been conducted in the First and Fourth wards for months past.

Another meeting will be held the first next week, when the two vacancies on the committee will be filled. A plan will be adopted, and when once the committee fixes its method of procedure it will be rigidly adhered to.

The members yesterday were very earnest in their discussion of the situation, and will stay with the crusade until some definite results for the betterment of conditions are obtained. Just when the next meeting will be held was not announced, but it will probably be early next week.

The announcement in The Gazette yesterday morning of the agreement between saloonkeepers, bottlers, gambling house and speakeasy proprietors and others of the same ilk, created much comment.

One of the men prominently identified with the meeting telephoned to The Gazette yesterday morning and corroborated the story in every particular, save one unimportant detail. The Gazette stated that the meeting had been held after closing hours, when in reality it occurred early in the evening. Otherwise, said this interested man, the story was correct in every detail.

This determination of the First and Fourth ward people will not affect the committee in any way. Other wards of Allegheny have been complained of and evidence of their condition is at hand. The agreement made may not last and some effort may be made soon to reopen the gambling houses and speakeasies. The committee will continue its investigations and push matters to the limit.

GATES BUYS A STEEL PLANT.

Gets the Laramie Rolling Mills and Will Develop Wyoming Ore.

LARAMIE, WYO., Nov. 28.—The Laramie rolling mills, operated by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company under a five-years' lease from the Union Pacific Railroad Company, are reported as having been sold to John W. Gates, the steel magnate.

It is said to be the intention of Mr. Gates to greatly enlarge the plant and so remodel it as to include the reducing of the native iron ores of the state.

HOPE HELD OUT FOR THE BABIES

Revised Presbyterian Creed Will Say If They Die They Won't Be Lost.

THE REVISION DOCTORS GET TO WORK

One Section of the Committee Spends Several Hours Drawing Up a New Statement of Doctrine Without Finishing It.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—The preliminary work of revising the creed of the Presbyterian church so as to make it more popularly understood, was begun here today at a meeting of a section of the committee of 20 appointed at the last Presbyterian general assembly.

The section that met today began the preparation of a new statement of the doctrine of the church. It spent several hours in discussion, but no action was taken on any phase of the subject. The Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson of Chicago presided and the other members who participated were the Rev. Drs. Minton of San Francisco and Sprecher of Cleveland and Justice Harlan of the United States supreme court.

A form of statement to replace the one now in use was submitted and other forms will likely be submitted. The object is to secure a formal expression of doctrine that will be more definite and clearer to the lay mind a clearer understanding of the subject than the present declaration. No vital changes were contemplated in today's discussions, but mainly a different mode of expression was aimed at. It was recognized that during the 250 years that have elapsed since the adoption of the present statement of doctrine, some differences have occurred in the conceptions of the authorities.

There was some discussion as to the incorporation of a statement regarding the personality of God, but this proposition is still a tentative one.

The section will hold another session tomorrow and will meet daily until Wednesday, when the full committee will reassemble with a view to taking final action. Whether the deliberations of the full committee will occupy a week or a number of weeks is still conjectural.

Two other sections of the committee will meet contemporaneously with the full body and frame propositions for action by that body. One of these will draft new chapters on the Holy Spirit and on the love of God, and the other will make a slight revision of the confession of faith, with reference to election and declaration. It is felt that the present statement on this point implies that any infant dying in infancy is "lost," from the standpoint of the religious future state, and the creed to be adopted will make it clear that the Presbyterian church does not hold the belief that those who die in infancy are "lost." This change will be effected probably by a specific declaratory statement, though, possibly, by amending the present text.
